

---

Editorial on the B of LF

by Eugene V. Debs

Published in Firemen's Magazine [Terre Haute, IN], vol. 6, no. 5 (May 1882), pg. 211.
Untitled snippet in the "Editorial" section, unquestionably work of Editor Debs.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen is making a good record in the field of labor. Day after day it is quietly gaining new victories. Railroad companies generally respect it, for its history is not one of rupture and strife, and they recognize in it an organization capable of doing a vast amount of good, while those helpless ones who have been left dependent upon its aid, are its friends, indeed.

There are a hundred reasons why it should exist, and we challenge the world to give a single one why it should not.

Edited by Tim Davenport

1000 Flowers Publishing, Corvallis, OR · July 2015 · Non-commercial reproduction permitted.