
PUBLIC MEETING PUBLIC MEETING PUBLIC MEETING PUBLIC MEETING

The British and unionists used to say that those who opposed British imperialism were a small minority with no support. Now that anti-imperialists have stood and won elections the British and Free State governments are now trying to change the rules. The British government have refused to meet anti-imperialists; have tried to stop them putting forward the views of their constituents and have tried to isolate them. In this they have received the support of the SDLP. They are effectively saying that our votes don't count- that we aren't allowed a voice. P.D. believes it is important for everyone who supports democratic rights to unite to say that our votes do count and that we do have a voice. If imperialism succeeded in isolating and demoralising anti-imperialists then the way would be clear to increased repression by both British and Southern governments and the taking away of whatever rights we have left. We must stand up now and say NO!

Invited speakers include John McAnulty (Peoples Democracy Belfast city councillor)

and speakers from Sinn Fein, IRSP, Bernadette McAliskey, New Ireland Group and others. Make sure you are there as well!
