

MILWAUKEE REFUGEE FILLS Representative Citizens Hold Mass Meeting for Rudowitz and Pouren

(SPECIAL TO THE DAILY SOCIALIST.) Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 30.—Milwaukee joined the ranks of the great cities which are fighting for the defense of Christian Ansoff Rudowitz last night at a monster mass meeting held in Lincoln hall, at which the decision of United States Commissioner Foote and the treaty with Russia were denounced in scathing terms.

A permanent branch of the Political Refugee Defense League was founded with delegates to the Central Council of the league at Chicago. A. J. Welch was made secretary of the Milwaukee branch.

The principal speakers were Louis F. Post, editor of "The Public," W. J. Rubin, a prominent Milwaukee attorney, and John C. Chase, chairman of the National organization committee of the Political Refugee Defense League.

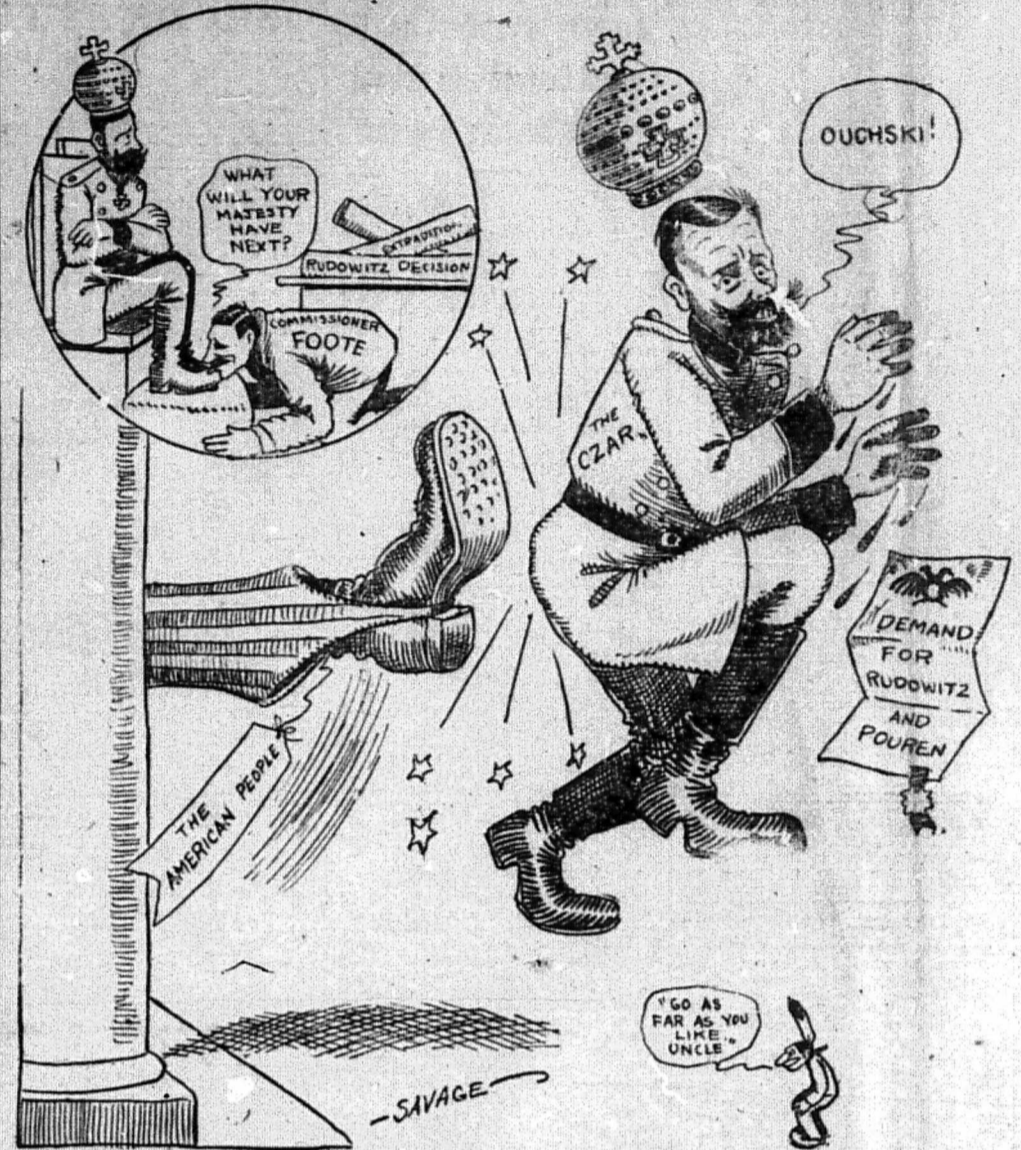

Like the Ku Klux Klan? On the platform were judges, professors, ministers, and professional men of all classes, as well as representatives of labor and the trades.

Mr. Post drew a parallel between the Ku Klux Klan in certain sections of the south after the great war, with Great Britain's refusal to permit Dr. Rufus Rattray to be abducted from Canada for participation in some of the outrages in the south, and Rudowitz's case.

Great Britain refused to surrender a man who was martial law prevailed and where the writ of habeas corpus had been suspended. John Boyle O'Reilly, the noted poet, furnished another example of the right of asylum offered by this country. "He lived here respected and honored by all, but up to the day of his death if he had crossed the Canadian line he would have been liable to seizure and return to penal servitude in Australia."

Was Once Prouddest Boast "Some of you in this beautiful city are the sons of brave Germans who found liberty and safety here after the revolution of '48; some of you are descended from patriotic Irishmen who fought for liberty on the other side of the ocean—I appeal to you not to forget what the United States meant to your ancestors. It was once our proudest boast that here was an asylum for the oppressed of every land—let us not forget that boast. Let us keep this a land where the refugee from autocratic rule, whether noble or peasant, can find safety from the vengeance of an autocratic government, can here find a safe asylum."

STARVING TOTS IS SPARGO PLEA

Says 1,248,000 Suffer From Malnutrition; 12,000,000 Physically Defective

The mind of John Spargo, the author of "The Bitter Cry of the Children," who is to lecture on "Narrow Medical Issues in Schools" at 4 o'clock this afternoon in the Fullerton Memorial hall, Chicago Art Institute, is entirely occupied with the health of the tot. He feels that the children of today are the men and women of the future, and that in order to make healthy husbands and wives, they must receive all the attention possible. The child question undoubtedly dominates his thoughts, so that when asked by a reporter to give his views on other subjects he invariably returned to the tot.

CATTLE PLAGUE ALARMS RUSSIA

Siberian Disease Causes the Government to Stop Its Fresh Meat Supply

(SPECIAL TO THE DAILY SOCIALIST.) St. Petersburg, Dec. 30.—The cattle plague in Siberia has assumed such alarming proportions that the meat supply of the Russian empire is threatened. The disease known as epizootic is killing the cattle by hundreds of thousands throughout Siberia, and it has begun to spread among the cattle along the Ural mountains to the Russian side of the border.

YANKEE HEIRESS WEDS DIAZ' FOE

Miss Trowbridge Is Bride of Sarabia; To Use Wealth to Aid Mexicans

Pity led the way down the long hard road of duty, and Elizabeth D. Trowbridge, daughter of one of the most renowned families in New England, followed. But the long, hard road had ended in the kingdom of love, even though the Spanish castle in the heart of that kingdom is a federal jail in Los Angeles, where Miss Trowbridge has just wedded Manuel Sarabia, the Mexican revolutionary refugee, hero of a hundred thrilling adventures along the border, whom she went from Massachusetts to Arizona and California to defend.

Miss Trowbridge, who is now Mrs. Sarabia, was attracted by the newspaper reports of the attempt of the Mexican government to extradite the revolutionaries who had attempted to throw off the yoke of Diaz. She was convinced that this attempt of the Mexican government was an invasion of the right of asylum, so sacred to the American people, and, being wealthy, she saw that a good use could be made of her wealth in combating this scheme of Diaz.

Meets Leader in Arizona She went to Arizona, where she met the leader of the revolutionaries, Manuel Sarabia, who had once been kidnapped by the Mexican government from the Douglas jail, and who had been returned to this country only after a strenuous appeal by the Western Federation of Miners. Sarabia was editor of a paper called El Defensor del Pueblo, published at Tucson, Ariz., in the interest of the revolution in Mexico, and was of course the greatest thorn in the side of Diaz. Naturally after his arrest on the request of the Mexican government he, as the commanding figure of the revolutionaries, interested Miss Trowbridge more than any of the other men connected with the movement. They worked together in the interest of the Mexican revolutionaries demanded by Diaz, and the

THE END? DEAD IN QUAKES IS NOW 200,000

Whole of Italy Terror-stricken Today; Fire Follows Tidal Wave

Have the friends of the Daily Socialist come to its aid for the last time? Is the paper to be allowed to die because those who have made it what it is have now grown tired of aiding it? Repeated calls for help have this time been ignored by those who have before responded. Last week a few Socialists in Chicago took the desperate means of going out and soliciting enough funds to tide over until this week. The management hoped that funds would come in from outside Chicago, but the expected aid from the out-of-town friends of the Daily did not appear, and the end is now in sight. This is the desperate truth. Unless aid comes quickly the Daily Socialist must cease to appear.

close the doors of the United States jails at will give orders to United States officials and finally protect his secret service system now operating in this country from being punished for its misdeeds.

Sarabia's Own Story Here is Sarabia's own story of how he was kidnaped: "In Mexico the rurales ride like the Cossacks of Russia, threatening, capturing and killing all who oppose the will of their master, the dictator. Mexico is accustomed to a military rule that strikes in the dark and gives no reason. To be taken from one's home suddenly, and without warrant, imprisoned without having committed a crime, held 'incommunicado' because your political opinions differ from those of the ruling power, all this Mexican citizens expect as part of their daily life.

But in the United States everything is different, and so, when the long arm of President Porfirio Diaz stretches across the border into this country and kidnaps those whom he fears and hates, it is time for American citizens to be on guard. For this reason I give the account of my kidnaping. "It began with the red faced man who had been watching me from the opposite side of the street, crossing and intercepting my efforts to reach the train leaving Douglas, Ariz. for El Paso. I had a letter to drop into the mail car and the locomotive was just

NATION IS OVERWHELMED BY CALAMITY; WHOLE TOWNS ARE SWALLOWED

Thousands Buried Under Ruins

It is colossal, without precedent. Nothing previously known in European history can be compared with it. A whole region has been destroyed. The corner of Italy on which nature seemed to smile, Messina and Reggio, are heaps of ruins under which lie buried thousands of corpses.

All the country along the Straits of Messina has suffered. Lower down the coast the sea rushed with terrific violence into Giarre, Riposto, Bordon and San Giovanni, sweeping away houses, ships, fishing boats and human beings. All the fishing boats at sea have disappeared.

At Palma and Bagnara the dead are counted by hundreds and the injured by thousands. Throughout the province of Calabria the ravages were frightful.

CATHOLIC YOUTH ARE SEGREGATED

German Parents Prevent Offspring From Associating With the Protestants

By J. B. ASKEW (Special European Correspondent.) Stuttgart, Dec. 18.—The national liberal organ, the Kolnische Zeitung (Cologne Gazette) is much disturbed because the Catholics are beginning to separate their youth entirely from the Protestants and are even going so far as to found Catholic football societies.

It certainly shows how great is the anxiety felt in Catholic circles over the diminution of their influence. But the objection of the national liberal organ hardly holds water when it is remembered how anxiously the same national liberals keep themselves and their children from all contact with the Social Democrats.

Independent Socialist Organizations It will undoubtedly serve as an additional impetus to our comrades everywhere to found young Socialist organizations and athletic associations free from patriotic and confessional influences.

Hitherto it must be allowed that large numbers of comrades have been most lax in these respects and belong to athletic societies where undisguised propaganda is made for patriotic purposes.

The Prussian chamber of deputies had a debate on unemployment. Our comrade, Borgman, aroused the amusement of the conservatives by his remark that the question could only be finally got rid of through the achievement of Socialism.

These gentlemen profess to regard that as an utterly impracticable Utopia and outside the range of possibility. But why then are they so anxious to see the Socialists should get a large representation in the Prussian chamber, and why are they always crying for special legislation against the Socialists?

Our comrade demands special tax on the rich to provide for the unemployed, and he pointed out that in Berlin dinners were often given costing at least 50 shillings a head, which, as everybody who knows the conditions in London will testify, would be well under the average for the dinners given at the Carlton and other similar establishments.

English Protectionism Stirs Germans It may be noted by the way, that the increasing popularity of protectionism among the masses in England is used by conservative speakers to demand a still higher tariff for Germany.

The Prussian chamber has, it may be added, declined to accept a motion calling on the government to release Liebsch for the duration of the session, so that he may fulfil his parliamentary duties.

The government had already declined to accede to this exceedingly moderate request on the score that Liebsch had been condemned before the election to parliament—a sham idea, which is absolutely at variance with the law and would naturally not have been advanced were Liebsch not a Social Democrat.

Laughter of Conservatives False No better compliment could be paid to Liebsch, and the fact that the conservatives supported the government shows that their laughter was the laughter of those who laugh not because they feel secure but because they dare not show how uneasy they feel.

The annual report of the labor secretary shows that a notable tribute to the usefulness of an institution which, it may not be known, is paid by the organized workers, that is the trades unions and the party organizations, almost entirely out of their own resources.

The labor secretaries exist, it may be added, in practically every German town of any size at all, and in a large number of small towns. The principal object is to give help and advice gratis to the workers on all local and other questions.

Labor Secretaryship's Scope The Stuttgart secretaryship was supported by the subscriptions of seven trade unions, four trade unions and fifteen Social Democratic unions. The number of men, 1,710 women. Of this number of persons, 16,731 were asked once and 642 asked oftener. The daily average was 87.4 visitors and 41.1 questions by post.

Of the questions asked, 7,802 came from skilled workers and 1,710 from unskilled. Again, 170 were servants, 243 hand workers, 192 agricultural workers, 232 clerks, etc., and 180 had no trade or profession.

Supported by Organizations There were 6,723 organized, 2,109 both politically and in trade unions; 4,684 in trade unions only; 228 politically. There were 876 of them qualified as readers of the Tagewacht.

The trades were as follows: Bakers, 34; builders' assistants, 58; brewers, 130; railway workers, 25; printers, 241; printers' assistants, 54; factory workers, 271; shop assistants, 15; wood workers, 1,181; lithograph workers, 80; metal workers, 1,761; transport workers, 124; and other trades too numerous to be mentioned.

These questions were on labor insurance—accident insurance, 2,241; life insurance, 854; invalid insurance, 734—altogether, 3,823.

Service Contracts Inquiry Labor and service contracts, giving of notice, 524; wage questions, 669; apprenticeship, 120; indentured labor (Gesinde), 188; labor protection, 31; registration cases, 101; sundries, 160; together, 1,724.

Civil law, 4,224 cases; criminal law, 26,000 cases; labor law, 1,000 cases; registration of births, education and other questions, 1,128; labor movement, 122.

The questions dealt with cover a very large field and give a carefully selected picture of certain aspects of the life of the German workers and the conditions.

It also brings very clearly before our eyes what was already known to many to how large an extent the German labor movement has already created a state within the state—a large extent independent of the capitalist state.

Workers' Insurance Decreased Insured under the workers' insurance laws were the average about 48,000 workers in the year 1907, which number diminished in consequence of the depression to 35,000 in 1908. That gives an idea of the unemployment in practical Germany.

For furniture workers in Stuttgart an agreement has been signed guaranteeing to workers under 25 years of age 5 cents an hour.

Our friends in the wondrous have also recently started a weekly paper under the editorship of Fabra Ribera, who will not be unknown to English comrades.

ETHEL ROOSEVELT AND YOUNG WOMEN WHO ASSISTED HER IN "COMING OUT"

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30.—To the younger set of capital society the event of the season took place last night in the dance at the White House, when the younger daughter of President and Mrs. Roosevelt officially was introduced.

From garret to cellar the mansion was ablaze with lights, and ferns and roses and other blossoms gave a festive and holiday air to the drawing rooms and corridors.

It was Miss Ethel's night, and belles and beaux, not only of the capital, but other cities, were assembled at the White House to make the occasion memorable. Daughters of high officials, the girls of the army and navy set, young women of residential society, young officers of the army and navy, secretaries and attaches of the diplomatic corps, and beaux and dancing men took part in the event.

Capital society generally was with them and danced away the hours in the historic East room, where so many gala affairs have taken place. Never since the coming out of Miss Alice Roosevelt, on Jan. 3, 1902, has there been so gay a party as that which met last night under the hospitable roof of the president.

Among the prominent young women who were in attendance at last night's affair were Miss Cornelia Laundon of New York, at whose debut Miss Roosevelt assisted early in the fall; Miss Frederica Morgan, Miss Ethel's special chum, and Fran von Livonius, the young wife of the military attaché to the German embassy, and said to be the most beautiful woman in Washington society.

MRS. LONGWORTH NARROWLY ESCAPES SERIOUS INJURY Washington, Dec. 30.—Mrs. Nicholas Longworth narrowly escaped being trampled beneath the hoofs of a pair of spirited horses yesterday when she was caught between an ambulance and carriage in front of the New National theater. The president's daughter screamed and repeatedly at the balloons were about to spring upon her. Edouard Catta, who was a short distance away, leaped forward and grasped her by the arm, hurrying her to the sidewalk.

Representative Longworth was standing in the lobby of the theater and witnessed his wife's narrow escape. Several women who also witnessed the affair shrieked and covered their faces with their hands when they saw the horses pawing the air within a few feet of Mrs. Longworth's head. Had not the policeman rescued the president's daughter she probably would have met with serious injury.

HURLED HIS GIFT IN KING'S FACE "Beggars of Gembloux" Got Rich Through Incident; Robbed of Fortune Brussels, Dec. 30.—The beggar of Gembloux, one of the most noted characters in Belgium, has just been robbed of the savings of years of mendicancy.

The beggar, whose name is Hadelin Granddils, was noted throughout the length and breadth of Belgium. He first gained fame through refusing to accept a Louis offered him by King Leopold several years ago.

It is said that the beggar rose on his crutches beside the road, and hurled the coin back into the king's automobile with a curse, saying that he might take the money of fools, but he would not take a sou from a king.

The story flew from lip to lip through-out Belgium; and the beggar of Gembloux, as Granddils was known, became a national character, and reaped a golden harvest. He was shrewd enough to realize that he had done a good piece of advertising in refusing the king's money, and he paraded the fact all over the country. At one time he wore round his neck a sign, "The man who refused the king's money," but he was compelled to discard this by the police.

Since the episode of refusing Leopold's tainted money, the beggar has been able to save several thousand francs. Distrustful of banks, he hid the money away in a hollow rafter in his hut at Gembloux.

The fraternity which makes an easy living by appropriating to themselves the property of others found one day that Granddils was carrying no bank account. They therefore surmised that he must be hiding his money away in a seek somewhere and quite naturally deduced that it was somewhere in the hut where the beggar hid his money. They therefore broke into the hut while Granddils was away on one of his begging trips, and departed with the 1,995 francs which they found hidden in the hollow rafter.

PROPERTY RIGHT IN WIVES GIVEN AS MURDER CAUSE Atlantic City, N. WOMAN WOUNDED IN THE OLYMPIA

Arrests Follow Shooting in Tuckhorn's Notorious Resort in Wabash Av.

Simon Tuckhorn's notorious Olympia resort, 400 Wabash avenue, was the scene early today of a shooting in which a young and fashionably attired woman received what may prove a fatal wound. Although the victim's own statement and the assertions of those who were in the saloon at the time of the shooting—between 4 and 5 a. m.—are to the effect that the shot was fired by the young woman with suicidal intent, the police are inclined to believe that such is not the case.

Will Arrest Tuckhorn Inspector Wheeler announced shortly after 9 a. m. that as soon as a municipal judge appeared he would swear out a warrant for Tuckhorn, the proprietor of the resort. Detectives Fitzgerald and Davis were chosen to serve the warrant. Keeping open after hours will be the charge.

So peculiar were the circumstances of the shooting and so unsatisfactorily was the fact of the saloon's being open at 4 a. m. explained to the police that "John Jones," a waiter, who rushed the wounded girl to St. Luke's hospital in Tuckhorn's automobile before the police were notified of the shooting, and a woman giving the name of Mrs. Pullman of Minneapolis were arrested. A search is also being made for a mysterious "Mr. Green," who accompanied the two women to the resort and who may be responsible for the shooting.

The identity of the injured woman has not been fully established, and she is not known to the employees or habitués of Tuckhorn's resort. At St. Luke's hospital she said that her name was Catherine Paulinsky, and that her home was in Warsaw, Poland. She came to Chicago a few days ago from New York. In New York she lived at the Hotel Girard. Aside from these meager details, the police were able to learn nothing of the woman's identity.

According to reports gathered at the hospital and at the Olympia cafe, "Green," Mrs. Pullman and Miss Paulinsky entered the place early this morning and ordered drinks.

Young Woman Shoots Herself? After having been in the saloon some time, the young woman is said to have gone to a toilet room and a moment later a shot was heard. Several attendants rushed into the room and the young woman was found on the floor.

"Jones," the waiter, assisted her woman companion to carry the half-conscious girl to Tuckhorn's automobile, which stood in Hubbard place near the entrance to the cafe. The two women were bundled into the car and a break-neck dash for the hospital was begun. After the departure of the wounded woman it was found that "Green" had disappeared, and no trace of him could be discovered later.

Insists She Fired Shot While upon the operating table Miss Paulinsky insisted that she had fired the shot herself.

"The bullet entered the young woman's left side, immediately below the heart, passing entirely through the body. It was fired from a small-caliber revolver and the weapon was later found in the possession of one of the attendants at the cafe, who asserted that he found it where the woman fell.

Tuckhorn was questioned by the police, but asserted that he was not in the cafe when the shooting took place. He said, however, that after 5 o'clock, and that the resort was not open before that hour. The fact that the woman had been removed to the hospital and the police notified by telephone before 8 a. m. shows, however, in the opinion of the police, that the shooting took place shortly after 4 a. m.

BALLOON ALARMS DARKEST RUSSIA

Cossacks Train Guns on Gas Bag; Peasants Look Upon It as Being Celestial

(SPECIAL TO THE DAILY SOCIALIST.) Breslau, Dec. 26.—Balloons which have just returned to this city from a voyage of a thousand miles through the air over Silesia and Russia relate some exciting adventures which they had on Russian soil.

As the balloon passed the Russian border near Pleschen at the height of about 1,700 feet the Cossack frontier guard fired repeatedly at the balloon, and even attempted to train the light field guns upon it. The balloonists responded by dropping ballast on the heads of the Cossacks and rising to a height of 3,000 feet, out of range of the field guns and rifles.

Peasants Fall on Knees From this point the balloon was rapidly swept out of range of the danger zone. In every village of Poland, as the balloon passed, the natives could be seen running out of their houses and falling upon their knees in the streets, extending their hands heavenward, evidently being under the impression that the balloon was a heavenly body.

This idea received confirmation when the balloon finally came to earth a short distance from Pskov, the capital city of the government of that name, near St. Petersburg.

As soon as the balloon descended the superstitious natives came flocking in from all the district round, bringing offerings of all sorts to the balloonists, whom they regarded as celestial beings. Just came down from heaven. Amulets, gold and silver ornaments, presents of food and drink, clothing of every imaginable description and gifts even of animals were offered to the astonished balloonists. None of the natives would approach the balloon. And when the occupants left the car the assembled crowds all fell on their knees and held out their hands in supplication.

Dispel Fear with Money It was only after the distribution of small sums of money that the villagers would believe that the aeronauts were really human and assist them in securing the car to the nearest railway station.

FIGHTING BEGINS IN VENEZUELA Port of Spain, Trinidad, Dec. 30.—There has been fighting at Macuro, on the Venezuelan coast, between adherents of former President Castro and the crew of a gunboat working in the interests of the new president, Juan Vicente Gomez. About twenty men were killed and some fifty wounded. The Gomez party was obliged to withdraw temporarily, but later returned to resume the engagement.

This news was brought here by the Miranda, the gunboat in question. The vessel left La Guayra for Macuro with men who were to take the places of the officials who had been serving under Castro. It arrived off Macuro yesterday morning. General Torres meanwhile had assembled about 500 men and was prepared to resist a landing. The Miranda cleared and went into action. Under cover of her battery the men on board tried unsuccessfully to effect a landing. The fighting lasted about four hours.

Workers' Insurance Decreased Insured under the workers' insurance laws were the average about 48,000 workers in the year 1907, which number diminished in consequence of the depression to 35,000 in 1908. That gives an idea of the unemployment in practical Germany.

For furniture workers in Stuttgart an agreement has been signed guaranteeing to workers under 25 years of age 5 cents an hour.

Our friends in the wondrous have also recently started a weekly paper under the editorship of Fabra Ribera, who will not be unknown to English comrades.

Disciplining of Officers Demanded Basing our demands upon these facts we demand of the minister of war the summary disciplining of Colonel Livonius and his officers connected with this outrage upon a friendly power, and we further demand that instructions be issued to all Russian officers to abstain from acts of violence contrary to the laws of other nations, and to refrain from the invasion of the soil of such nations.

The document was signed by the entire Socialist group and by a number of the left and center members, as well as a few Otorberists.

PROPERTY RIGHT IN WIVES GIVEN AS MURDER CAUSE Atlantic City, N. J., Dec. 30.—Asserting that it is "the property instinct" rather than real love for a wife or sweetheart which prompts murders by men whose women folk have been led from the paths of propriety by other men, Prof. Charles Zuehlke of Boston, connected with the University of Chicago, started even the students of social conditions at the opening meeting of the American Sociological society here yesterday afternoon in a frank discussion of modern conditions in the United States.

Out of The Dump

By Mary E. Marcy.

Do you remember "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," which had a big run some year ago? It pictured the working people as "our best" people would like them to be. Out of The Dump is a book that shows the working people as they are.

The capitalists and the charity workers in the story, too, are live people, neither better nor worse than real life.

There are eight original wash drawings and a cover design by R. H. Chaplin. Well printed and daintily bound in cloth, a beautiful Christmas book. Price 50 cents, postpaid.

Socialism, Its Growth and Outcome, by William Morris and Ernest Belfort Bax, is a work no student of socialism can afford to miss. It has thus far been sold only in the imported edition at $1.25. We have now published it in neat cloth binding with good type and paper, at 50 cents, postpaid.

We have lately bought the plates and copyright of Socialism and Modern Science, by Enrico Ferri, and shall at once publish a handsome edition of this standard book in our International Library of Social Science, at $1.00 postpaid.

Our Socialist Playing Cards, with verses by Mary E. Marcy and designs by R. H. Chaplin, are a delight to socialists and have an awakening effect on other people. There are 53 cards, which look enough like ordinary playing cards so that all the usual games can be played with them at sight.

But the pictures are all original caricatures, and every card carries a verse that will make people laugh and think. 50 cents, postpaid.

The International Socialist Review is now the most readable of Socialist periodicals. JACK LONDON'S New Story, The Dream of Delia, comes out in the January and February numbers.

4% Improvement @ Refunding Bonds, Amount $50,000.

--Payable, Dec. 1st, 1912--Interest Payable Annually.

The Workers' Publishing Society, publishers of the DAILY SOCIALIST, are about to issue $50,000 of 4 per cent improvement and refunding bonds.

The proceeds of these bonds are to be used for the purpose of enlarging and improving the Daily Socialist and for paying off the present mortgage indebtedness of the Publishing Society, it being expressly provided by the Trust Deed through which the bonds are to be secured that at all times an amount of bonds at least equal in amount to the outstanding indebtedness secured by prior mortgages shall be reserved exclusively for the redemption of such indebtedness.

The bonds will be issued in denominations of $100, $50, $25 and $10. It is hoped that as many as possible will purchase bonds of the larger denominations in order that the minor bonds may be left for purchase by those who cannot afford to purchase the large bonds.

The undersigned Board of Directors, recently elected, wish to impress upon those interested in the welfare of the Daily Socialist that a united action resulting in the quick disposal of the whole issue of bonds will be much more effective as an assistance to the Daily Socialist than slow action. By the supply of a few thousand dollars at a time little more can be accomplished than a slow and gradual improvement, at considerable loss. By quick action and an immediate supply of ample funds it will be possible not only to clear off all debts, except current accounts, but to make the paper so attractive and to increase the circulation to such an extent that the monthly deficit will be wiped out, and that profitable progress thenceforward may reasonably be expected.

It should be understood by those who have saved money that by investing a portion of it in Daily Socialist bonds they will NOT put the money beyond their own reach for four years. These bonds are made payable to bearer and can be as readily transferred as money itself, and the management of the Daily Socialist will make it its business to assist those who at any time may desire to sell their bonds in finding a purchaser, by advertising without charge, and by personal efforts.

Now, Comrades, we will not tell you that these bonds are as safe, commercially speaking, as United States bonds or good first mortgages on real estate. But we believe that they offer a REASONABLY SAFE INVESTMENT to put a part of your savings into.

If you will do this, and do it quickly, your money will not only be safer than in many a bank—safer than in many a home bought on the installment plan—safer than in most any small business you might go into—safer than in most any mine or stock venture, but we know, and YOU KNOW, that it will help the cause that is as dear to you as perhaps life itself; that it will help to make life richer, purer and sweeter; that it will help to secure to the Socialist movement of America that which it has been lacking—a really powerful daily paper.

In view of this cause, in view of the demonstrated loyalty of the constituency of this paper, in view of the fact that we can count on the continued support of at least 30,000 determined men and women, an asset more valuable than goods and chattels, a living force greater than many a large financial or commercial institution can count on, with a constantly increasing margin of safety and later on of profit, as the number of subscribers and advertisers increases—in view of all this we feel abundantly justified in recommending to you the investment of a reasonable part of your savings in these bonds, and we promise you that we shall do the best our limited powers will allow, not only to make it pay, but to make it count in the struggle for righteousness and justice, for better manhood, womanhood and childhood, for life, and for life more abundant.

Comrades, we count on you! Act now!

COMISKEY BOYS HOME FOR SOX

Secures Old Brotherhood Grounds; Will Erect Stands That Will Hold 35,000

The Chicago White Sox have a home of their own. Charles A. Comiskey, the president and owner of the ex-world's champions, yesterday purchased the old Brotherhood grounds from the estate of "Long John" Wentworth.

Comiskey Wants Grand Ball Park Eighteen years ago Charles Comiskey played on these grounds as captain and manager of the Chicago Brotherhood team, one of the greatest aggregations of baseball players ever gathered together.

It is his purpose to use steel and cement almost exclusively, and elevators will carry the fans to the upper tiers, or decks, of the seats.

Surroundings to Be Fine "I will have a park that will be second to none in the country," said President Comiskey last night. "Not only will it have the best stands that money can buy, but I intend to make the surroundings pleasing to the eye."

For years the tract of land has been historic in the sporting world. Not only did the Brotherhood use it during the winter baseball era, but the National League club of Chicago also played there early in the '90s.

TAFT WISHES NEGRO TO HAVE POLITICAL JUSTICE

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 29.—A speech made in New York City last night by President-Elect Taft having been construed by many persons in Maryland as indicating Mr. Taft's approval of disfranchising negro voters in the southern states, Governor Chamberlain of this city recently wrote Mr. Taft on the subject of a proposed amendment to the constitution of Maryland which is to be submitted to the voters at the next election and which is popularly known as the disfranchising amendment.

MILKMAN BUILDS STRANGE AIRSHIP

New York, Dec. 29.—An inventor of aeroplanes and an ardent enthusiast heretofore unheard of has suddenly made his appearance in Brooklyn. His name is Fred Schneider and he has a machine that astounds experts.

Schneider, who is a German, 30 years old, first made his appearance on Sunday last at the Morris Park racetrack, where the aeronautics society has been making experiments and modestly asked for permission to enter and assemble his craft.

The aeroplane is the first to have three propellers. These are of aluminum and are each five and one-half feet long. One of these is placed on either side, and the other immediately behind the motor.

The motor is the first of its kind to be tried on any flying apparatus. It is a thirty-horse power gasoline, air-cooled gyroscope engine and weighs ninety-seven and one-half pounds.

THE HUSTLERS' COLUMN BY A. W. MANICE.

Lakeview, Mich., Dec. 28, 1908. Comrades of the Daily: I have just four dollars and it is winter! Here is one of them to help keep the paper from dying. Yours to the end, Arche Smith.

IF YOU COULD ONLY UNDERSTAND Comrades, readers and friends of the Daily, let me show you something. You know that the primary object for publishing the Chicago Daily Socialist is to educate the people to understand Socialism and make Socialists of them.

At a great cost of money, time and energy during the past two years we have equipped a printing plant, organized an excellent editorial staff, etc., which is capable of turning out what you one and all testify is an excellent paper.

The thing I want to impress on your attention today is this: Our fixed charges of getting out the paper in the form of rent, heat, light and wages for editorial staff, etc., would be no greater if our circulation was 75,000 than it is with its present circulation of 35,000.

Will you make an effort? Will you go after it? Now go back and read again the letter printed at the top of this column. I don't want to spoil its effect by making any comment on it.

"THE WOMAN OF THE HOUSE" One of the hardest problems that the organized Socialists have had to grapple with has been and still is how to effectively reach the women with our propaganda.

Now, comrades of the female persuasion, I am going to appeal to you in the same terms that we do to the working class. If you are ever to be economically free, you yourself must work out your own salvation.

EMANCIPATION EDITION—HELP! Comrades: One of the greatest opportunities to reach the masses of colored people with the Socialist message which is so dear to us all, white or black, is on Emancipation Day—January 1, 1909.

MAXINE ELLIOTT'S NEW THEATER

SCENE FROM 'THE CHAPERON'

What is regarded as the most costly and handsomest theater of its size ever erected in this country—namely, Maxine Elliott's theater, New York—will be opened with usual formalities on Wednesday evening, Dec. 30. The new theater is on West Thirty-ninth street, between Broadway and Sixth avenue. The plans of the playhouse, its construction, decorative scheme, general comfort for audience and actor alike, are due to the ingenious thought of Miss Maxine Elliott, who, in partnership with the Shuberts, has expended a fortune in constructing the house. It is primarily, if not essentially, a woman's theater. Its construction was undertaken with a view to making it not only the house theater of Miss Elliott, but also of other women stars, including Julia Marlowe, Mme. Nazimova and Mary Man- nering. The inaugural attraction will be Miss Elliott in her latest comedy, 'The Chaperon,' by Marion Fairfax.

THE CROOKED SIXPENCE

"Is that you, Mr. Vane?" Wilfred Vane halted on the stairs. He knew from the tone of Mrs. Smith's voice what was coming. He had expected it for days, but dreaded it none the less. "When are you going to pay me my money?" The question was blunt and direct, after the manner of his kind, but he knew the woman had a kindly heart, and, after all, could he blame her? "I don't know," he answered, quietly, with equal candor. "You ain't no liar, anyway," continued his landlady. "That's what I always say to my Joe. But as he says, that won't pay the rent. I like to be straight with everybody, and if you don't pay your rent, I can't pay mine. The plain fact is—an I'm sorry for it, you being a quiet, well-spoken young man—unless you can find me some money by tomorrow morning, you'll have to go."

Each day, and her clothes shabbier and her hair more unkempt, she could not help but feel that she was being forced to do so, but no possible excuse had presented itself, and he could see that the girl would not brook a liberty. He quickened his steps till he came to the parlor, where he found the door closed. It would soon be dusk, and he found himself fearing that he might be too late. Then, as he passed round the lake, he saw the subject of his thoughts. She was sitting on her accustomed seat, but he could see that something more than usual was wrong today. Her face was buried in her handkerchief, and he could hear from the half-suppressed sobs that she was weeping bitterly. In an instant he was by her side. "Pardon me, miss," he said, gently. "Are you ill?" "The girl looked up at him with tear-dimmed eyes, and said: "No, she replied, with an effort, "not ill, but—oh, so hungry." "Hungry! Gracious! Hungry, and he—"

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

The Woman Lawyer Who Won a $30,000 Fee

There is nothing remarkable about the fact that a woman lawyer should win a big bill case. Why shouldn't she? As a matter of fact, in many instances, women make better lawyers than men, especially through natural intuition. Then again, they are good talkers, and persuasive in argument.

Miss Miller held that, under the trustee's construction, the estate might have been distributed among the heirs if it was intended to benefit. The youngest of the grandchildren, John Bross Lloyd, is now twenty-two years old, and the oldest, William Bross Lloyd, is thirty-three. Miss Alice, argued that should any of the heirs die before the construction placed upon it by Asahel T. Galt, the administrator, who contested the suit for immediate distribution.

for the marble slab, which is rather heavy to lift, unless indeed it is stationary. Ornamental Pastry. One can find at the shops a little utensil called a "pastry jigger," which costs but a few cents, and with this little article a pie can be trimmed and "crimped" around the edge in a few seconds, saving time and labor for the cook. A pie trimmed in this way has a neater appearance than when the work is done with fork and knife in the old-fashioned way.

Self-Transferable Embroidery Designs

Directions for using: Place pattern face downward on the material and press with a hot iron, being careful that the material to be stamped is laid on a smooth surface and is free from all wrinkles.

Adding the Ice-Water. When the lard and flour have been well mixed together, and for this the fingers and palms give quickest results (although some authorities advise working the lard into the flour with a knife), the ice-water should be added a little at a time; if too much water is added the crust will be tough and "leathery," for more flour must be added to keep the too-moist paste from sticking to the board. If too little water is used the paste will be "crumbly" and fall to pieces as one attempts to roll it out. Only by experience can one learn just how much water to add, but it is easy to add a little more, a few drops at a time, and work the particles of shortened flour together with a silver knife, until the paste combines and can be rolled out on the board. A generous pinch of salt should be added with the lard or sifted into the bowl with the flour.

About Pastry Making

The lard and everything connected with the pastry-making, including the utensils, should be as cold as possible, and the flour furnishing stores display a glass rolling-pin with an adjustable handle which can be removed for the purpose of packing the roller with ice to make it very cold. In many of the newer houses, marble slabs are built into the pantry so that the pastry can be made away from the heat of the kitchen on a cold stone slab; failing the marble slab, however, it is possible to have the ordinary wooden "kneading board" covered with a layer of zinc, and by starting this in a cold place some time before using, find a very good substitute and roll like a piece of music. Cut it across the center and lay in the ice-box until ready for use. This sort of pie-crust is so rapidly and easily made that it is admirable for emergency purposes. The quantity of butter may be reduced somewhat if, upon trial, it proves too rich for the family taste.

For Home Dressmakers

Misses Tucked Shirtwaist. Paris Pattern No. 2702. All Seams Allow d. Notwithstanding all that has been said to the contrary, the shirtwaists of French flannel, cashmere, silk, heavy linen, Indian-head cotton and mouseline are still the popular every-day attire for the school girl. The fullness of both the front and back of the illustrated model is put into narrow tucks, both portions being attached to a tuck-in shoulder yoke. The rather close-fitting sleeves have two groups of tucks above the wrist, which is finished with a narrow ruffle of plaited mouseline. The waist closes through the center-front box-pleat in a simple button. The pattern is in 4 sizes—A to 17 years. For a miss of 13 years the shirtwaist requires 7 1/2 yards of material 3 1/2 inches wide, 7 1/2 yards 2 1/2 inches wide, 1 yard 3 inches wide, or 3/4 yard 2 1/2 inches wide, with 1/4 yard of edging. Price of Pattern, 10 cents.

All Socialist Women Attend This Meeting

All Socialist women members of the party are urged to be present at a meeting called by the Socialist Woman's committee, and the Socialist Woman's branch, for Monday, Jan. 4, 1927, 9 o'clock, 150 Washington street, in Young People's League hall. The meeting is called to consider the program for a woman's meeting to be held at the Garrick theater in the near future.

Fitting the Crust

Cut off just enough paste to roll out one crust at a time, and use any trimmings there may be for under crusts, for worked-over pastry is apt to be tough. Experience teaches one in time just about how much paste is needed for covering a pie-late so that very few trimmings will be left over. After rolling out the top crust for a pie, spread over it lumps of cold lard about the size of a bean, placing them here and there as it happens, and then dredge a very little flour lightly over the top of the lard and pat the paste with the cool palm, as lightly as possible; lay this on top of the pie, trim the edges and crimp, and then hold the pie under a cold-water faucet, allowing a thin stream of the cold water to run over the flour and lard, tipping the pie slightly so the water will run off the top immediately; now pat the pie into a hot oven at once, and the crust will look not unlike puff paste, and be tender and flaky without any suggestion of lard in its flavor. A little of the lard may be reserved in the bottom of the cup for this purpose, making the top crust slightly richer and more slightly than the under one.

Fillings for Pies

If the pies are to be filled with fruit, prepare this beforehand and mix the sugar with the fruit in a bowl; this makes the fruit cook quickly, and gives out a thick syrupy juice which is not so apt to boil out as when the sugar is put in alone and the fruit likewise. Dried fruits, if soaked overnight after washing, and cooked early in the morning in a closely covered saucepan which causes the fruit to steam, make a delicious filling for pies during the winter.

Good Plain Paste

A quickly-made plain paste may be compensated with 1 lb. of flour sifted into a 2-qt. bowl. Cut up 1/2 lb. each of lard and butter (well leed) with a knife into bits the size of a marble. Sprinkle with 2 gills of ice-water and roll rapidly adding a pinch of salt. Roll out three-times to the space of the board, dredging each time with flour.

Misses Tucked Shirtwaist. Paris Pattern No. 2702. All Seams Allow d. Notwithstanding all that has been said to the contrary, the shirtwaists of French flannel, cashmere, silk, heavy linen, Indian-head cotton and mouseline are still the popular every-day attire for the school girl. The fullness of both the front and back of the illustrated model is put into narrow tucks, both portions being attached to a tuck-in shoulder yoke. The rather close-fitting sleeves have two groups of tucks above the wrist, which is finished with a narrow ruffle of plaited mouseline. The waist closes through the center-front box-pleat in a simple button. The pattern is in 4 sizes—A to 17 years. For a miss of 13 years the shirtwaist requires 7 1/2 yards of material 3 1/2 inches wide, 7 1/2 yards 2 1/2 inches wide, 1 yard 3 inches wide, or 3/4 yard 2 1/2 inches wide, with 1/4 yard of edging. Price of Pattern, 10 cents.

Seven years had passed, and with them had come prosperity to Wilfred Vane—a prosperity brought about by his own indomitable will and untiring energy. When he had left the hospital, he was lucky enough to get a chance to work his passage to South Africa. There he plunged into the fierce fight for the wealth that was raging round him, and found, as many a disappointed stranger has before, that his skill triumphed and sent him out into the world again to take his place—if he could.
