CALL ENGLAND'S CABINET TO DISCUSS STRIKE

SYSTEM TO TRY

Humanity, Not Property. Gets First Attention in Milwaukee.

Brisbane Hall, Milwaukee, Aug. 16.—
"Crimes against property, unless of the Aviators Are Uushaken by the limit of the law, but crimes against children I prosecute to the limit." This was the declaration of Socialist District Attorney W. C. Zabel of Milwau kee county.

Zabel is a young lawyer, regarded as one of the best of his prefossion in the city. He has introduced a system which is a new one at least in the prose-cutor's office here.

Switchman Thirsty

Here is a case in point. After working twelve hours in a hot, dusty raligoad yard, a switchman broke into a carload of cases of beer. This was done at night. The next morning the railroad authorities, railroads are such honest institutions, brought the switchman before the district attorney. They demanded the limit of the law. They wanted their employe sent to the workhouse. house.

The switchman had a wife and family.

The railroad pointed out the terrible nature of the crime.

The robbery occurred at night; the car had been broken open; the beer had Zabel called attention to the fact that Zabel called attention to the ract that the man had been on duty continuously for twelve hours, that he had a wife and family. So, though the proof of the theft was clear, Zabel had the man paroled on probation without ever being sent to the workhouse. That is Zabel's system. Zabel's system.

Reform Schools Useless

"I don't want to get the little men r minor offenses against property,"

"I don't want to get the little men for minor offenses against property," eays Zabel.

In contrast with this a man who outraged an li-year-old girl was given the limit of the law and sent to state's pristor for fifteen years. For all those offenses like that of the switchman, Zabel seeks to parole the accused after conviction. This is especially true with young boys and men. Zabel has little faith in reform schools.

In contrast with this Zabel has tried to get a bank wrecker paroled because of the man's laweledge of graft among the men "higher up." This bank wrecker had been bitterly prosecuted by the federal authorities, while the man regarded as really responsible for the bank's destruction had been let of lightly and now holds a corporation position.

Zabel has made a plea to President Taft for the parole of the man whostestimony he wants, and Taft has refused to act.

Use of Phones for Train Dispatching Taken Up by Perham

The Order of Railway Telegraphers will immediately seek to organize the telephone operators who will be em-

The certainty that other railroads will adopt similar measures has aroused the railway telegraphers, and President Perham of their organization, likewise head of the Railway Department of the American Federation of Labor, has recently been active in the Northwest, where the union is meeting a similar situation.

Soldiers as Strikebreakers

He could talk little English. It is unofficially stated that if the cabinet finds no plan for averting a general railroad strike, the government will summon the Royal Engineers and the Army Service Corps to work the railways. TO DISREGARD Railroads Must Yield to the Demands of England's Toilers.

Liverpool, Aug. 16 .- Not a railroad train will be moved in England tonight unless the roads yield to the demands of the unions in their employ

Notice was served on the companies yesterday that if settlement with the 550,000 employes was not reached today a general strike would begin.

Death Toll Mounts High

The toll of death following the attacks of police and hussars on crowds of hungry strikers may reach a score, as the hospitals are filled with desperately wounded workers. One man, whose name is unknown, was instantly killed by an officer of the hussars yesterday.

Scores of arrests which appeared unjust to the men on strike and to their sympathizers were made late yesterday. This action by the police was followed by the news that the railway unions had called a general strike and would wait only twenty-four hours before putting it into effect.

Strikers Protest

Strikers Protest

Shortly after this information became public the police were seen taking a wagonload of strikers to jail. Thousands of men and women gathered in the streets and protested.

A clash resulted. The police not only called for reinforcements from their own department, but hussars were rushed to the scene of the trouble.

The appearance of the troops was the signal for angry outcries from the crowd. After a few stones had been thrown at the troopers the crowds were fired on and charged by the cavalrymen with drawn sabers.

Wounded fell on all sides. One man was instantly killed. Others were taken to the hospitals, many of them mortally wounded. The port is virtually closed because of the strike of tugmen and of workers of many trades in the city.

Bosses Must Yield

It seems certain that the employers must yield, the bakars and millers having conceded that the city will very soot be without food. Dispatches from Soon be without took paper and from Cardiff, Wales, a great coal and from center, tell that the police last night charged into a crowd of striking negro firemen and beat several strikers into firemen and beat several strikers into a pulp.

The situation today throughout England is the most critical in years.

The railroad workers charge that the roads have not dealt fairly with them under the conciliation act. Grievaness arising out of such disputes are the main ones at issue in the demand made. The Amalgamated Society of Railway Servants, the Society of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen and the General Railway Workers' union have united in ordering the general strike, which is expected to take effect today.

Chicago Insurance Company Caught Red-Handed Cheating Families

Workingmen of Chicago for years have been skinned by the most ruthless corporation extant.

Not only has this corporation pilfered from the pockets of hard tolling wage slaves a big quota of their weekly earnings, but what is far worse, when he died or was injured, the insurance which he expected would go to his family was not forthcoming.

The railroad offered to settle with him for $500. Zibbell refused and brought suit for $100,000 damages.

Hence Ruggles' patent—a cogged, stepped rail on which fitted the cogged driver to accomplish both ends—ora-vided requisite traction force and keep the wheels on the rails.

Imagine a fiver of today doing 56 miles an hour on cogs!

Holton's new tire is designed to combine the puncture-proof quality of the solid druber tire with the lightness and resiliency of the infinited tire. It consults of a solid core, preferably of wood, which sets down upon the rim of the wheel. On the flat top of the core are set on edge V-shaped strips of rubbes, close together, but with air spaces between them. The whole tire is covered with a thick rubber thread-tubs.

HUSTLERS & COLUMN

CONDUCTED BY WILLIAM CHERNEY.

All at Once -

"Put me down for 25 cents a month on the sustainers' fund (25 ents enclosed for August). I have been waiting till my 'personal financial budget' was so arranged that I could give an amount that would look better than this measely little 'two bits.' But I have concluded that if the other 10,000 who have been waiting like me to make the amount bigger would just walk up all at once and drop their quarters in the 'slot' that would settle the deficit for good.

"TELL THE OTHER TEN THOUSAND TO COME ON.

"C. F. LOWRIE, Stanford, Mont."

All right, ten thousand more of you COME ON. There is one vital fact in this comrade's letter that I want to impress upon all of you forcibly even though it may be necessary to use other than polite language to do it.

That one thing is to ACT— to "do it now," without waiting until ome future time when you hope to be able to do more,

There are many persons who wait, thinking that a small amount is not worth while, hoping to be able to give a more substantial lift little later on.

Their good intentions and their loyalty are to be admired. But their supposition that a small lift is not worth while is wrong. A "bird in the hand" you know.

Besides it is better that a large number give a small amount than that a few bear the burden alone. It makes the load more evenly divided.

Anyway, wouldn't it be joyful to see the whole ten thousand walk up at once?

Still if you think that a few cents is not enough to send in, ge a number of people in your neighborhood to join with you. Make it your business to take care of collecting the money each month, send it all in together.

Build up a local sustainers' league in your town!

And last but not least-rather at least-send in your August pledge.

Two come sneaking in rather quietly, but our well known friend, Hemlock Jones, soon discovers that Otto Huber, New Richmond, O., is responsible for the deed.

Comrade Dan. M. Caldwell, Gien Rope, Pa., went over to the Socialist Picnic at Utahville, Ph., and got two, Moral: Go to Socialist picnics.

Two more bite the dust under the whiri-wind attack of Comrade D. C. Brown, Mc-Gill, Nev. Gill, Nev.

The sub card is the big stick of the huster organization. Comrade G. W. Anderson, Argenta, Ark., wants to be up close where he can smell the smoke and so cashes in the dollars for sub cards.

Comrade W. H. Lawler, Indianapolis, Ind., gets his temper filed up a bit when he sets that the Hustler Machinery has got out of gear and rushes in selfth two to help matters get back into shape.

As we slide to press, we bump into Com-rade 1. H. Williams, Granby, Mo., who im-mediately accounts for his appearance by showing in two subs and an order for sub-scription cards.

This is really the business of the city planner, to provide the requisite opportunity bears the same relation to prohobilion as heat does to ice.

Opportunities for desirable social conditions cannot be maintained, however, while there is such waste in our commercial activity. Wherever a manufacturing blant has been penny wise and pound foolish enough to tolerate inconvenience, they lose credit at their bank. Modern or up-to-date accounting is preving that many a business losse in one department what it gains in another convenience.

Daily Waste Huge

The daily waste is enormous. People are asked today why cannot we have a three-cent fare in place of a four-cent one on street cars. I would ask every factory employs, why should you have

When you find common councils of a city entertaining suggestions for all sorts of prohibitory ordinances it is a sign that evils are being recognized. But as usual we attack the reesult, not the cause, and begin at the chimney to fould a better life.

We have cherished the word "independent," We do try to maintain an attitude of independence and fiatter ourselves as being so. But the time for Robinson Crusce is past.

The fils for which we suffer most today are in consequence of the individual being handicapped by conditions over which he has no control.

Some Responsibilities

This, however, is not the most serious aspect of the matter. The loss of health, while it adds enough to pay interest on an additional $1,000 home in vestment, making the average loss to the toiler of a $2,000 permanent investment investment of home comfort, it occasions vice, the damage of which cannot be measured by money.

This loss to the wage earner is, of course, indirect.

Therefore he endures it as best he can. Their loss is more than a personnal girevance, however. We have come to point where our municipal organizations are in peril.

The Taft Mind Again

It Opposes the Recall of Judges Because It Was Molded in the Courtroom.

The President's message on the statehood bill presents an excellent picture of the Taft mind at work. Minds are dependent for their character upon what has been put into them, upon associations they have had, the trend which has been given them by habit.

The Taft mind was molded in a courtroom, where precedent after precedent is piled up in support of MINORITY RULE-CLASS RULE. Trained to the idea that the people do not know what they want, Taft could not be expected to view with complacency the prospect of the majority of the people USING THEIR JUDG-MENT COLLECTIVELY INSTEAD OF THE JUDGMENT OF ONE MAN ALONE.

Stripped of all theorizing the Taft message is an argument against majority rule.

There can be no majority rule that is not continuous. Where an interruption of majority rule occurs, there oligarchy finds its Whenever, for a day, or upon a single matter, the MAJORITY IS DENIED the right to exercise its judgment, the judgment and will of a MINORITY IS SUBSTITUTED.

The minority so substituted in power may at times be an accidental selection, but if there exists in society a class that is economically interested in controlling government that class will seek power at the point where majority rule breaks down.

America, especially, proves this. The owners of the means of production, the capitalist class, few in number, have constantly used all checks against popular will that the constitution and courts can

Constituting the majority, the working people have clamored for laws that would readjust their economic relations to the capitalist class. Even the most modest demands by this majority have met check after check and when finally forced beyond all other checks have met defeat in the courts, where exists the most effective check

By developing a set of precedents founded on past rule and privilege of a class the courts have made it almost impossible for majority will to prevail at any time in judicial proceedings affecting interests of the capitalist class.

Vaguely the people understand that this is so, but confronted with a mass of legal technicalities (all of them "checks"), they are

Taft is defending class rule. He admits it when he speaks of the "injustice" that the majority moy do to the minority "when the selfish interest of the majority prompts."

When it becomes a question of the interests of the minority, who are the capitalists, against the interests of the majority, who are the working people, Taft wishes to insure that the minority interests

A Kansas City girl bit the end of her tongue off in an automobile accident. Doctors decided that a new tip could be grafted on it and a young prisoner in the county jail at Kansas City offered to sell his. He wanted money with which to conduct an appeal for a parole.

A system that makes it possible for one person to actually buy the tongue of another, a system that disfigures one person for the benefit of another, cannot be justified with any fine theories. They agree upon other points that tend to limit competition between each other in the sale of their products. Each firm puts up security that it will live up to its part of the agreement or bind itself by some other method mutually satisfactory.

A TRUST HAS BEEN FORMED, EACH MAN RETAINS INDIVIDUALLY TAKES THE PROFITS AND INDIVIDUALLY TAKES THE PROFITS OF THE OTHER FIRMS WITHIN THE TRUST.

Time brought forth many weak points in this form of organization. Each firm had the incentive to give relates secretly to the others' customers, and so capture them from the rival firms. These missatisfactory workings, within the trusts was the cause of the formation of the modern corporation.

ings, within the trusts was the cause of the formation of the modern corporation.

The invention of the corporation was, next to the steam engine, the most important invention during the existence of the capitalist system of wealth production. It was the creation of a legal individual who never died, who could hold property, who shouldered all responsibility, who could not be put in jall, who could not be hung, at increas, with the died of the could do anything that any other individual could do. It was the method by which the business man could retire from active participation in the business, have the business carried on and receive an increased income from it.

ordered their lawmakers to make laws legalizing this new method of doing business.

We now find these twenty firms that and combined in the trust, organizing a new corporation. They then appraise the plants of each firm and sell them to the corporation, taking stock in the new company for probably twice the value of their factories.

They call this "watering" the stock and state in justification that the elimination of waste justifies the increased valuation. We now notice some revolutionary changes taking place in the conduct of their business. The new corporation sends but one salesman to each city formerly visited by a salesman from each of the twenty competing firms within the trust, so the wages and expenses of the other nineteen salesmen are saved.

Another feature of the corporation is that they use each factory to make the goods for its own neighborhood and thereby cut out at the very least three-fourths of the former expense for freight.

of the former expense for freight.

In advertising we find one advertisement representing the twenty convolidated companies. They may advertise five times as much as each firm formerly did previous to consolidation and still save three-quarters of the former total cost, in addition to covering the field much more thoroughly than their competitors.

Any of the twenty factories where the cost of opera-tion is high, are closed down. The factories, when the cost of operation is cheaper, are increased in size. One superintendent now superintends a large factory and gets about the same wages he received when in charge of a small one. One engineer is all that is needed to operate one large engine that generates five times the horse power that is generated by an engine in a small factory, so everal engineers lose their positions.

The saving in cost of management, superintendence, designing, accounting, time-keeping, cost of material by buying in large quantities, better fuel facilities make it possible for the large company to make goods cheaper than its competitors. They establish one central selling agency which cuts down enormously the former cost of that department of the manufacturing business. Lack of space prevents us enumerating hundreds of other points where large production has an economic advantage over small competitive business, BUT WE HAVE COVERED ENOUGH TO SHOW THE READER

THAT THE NEW CORPORATION CAN SELL AT A PROFIT, CHEAPER THAN THEIR SMALL COMPETITORS CAN DELIVER THE GOODS TO THE

It was at this point that the cry of "destroy the trusts" went up from the despairing small business man. He realised that the large corporation would drive him out of business if some way could not be found to make evolution stand still or turn backward.

The Democratic party in 1896, representing "small business" interests under the leadership of the eloquent Mr. Bryan, started out on a "trust busting" expedition; but, alsa and alack, they had less funds than their more prosperous opponents, the "large business" men of the country.

Mr. Bryan's campaign fund was about $500,000, while his successful rival was gently slipped into the presidential chair with an expenditure of about $17,000,000, Mr. Bryan found that it took more than eloquence to win political campaigns, but undismayed he made another bold start in 1900.

other bold start in 1900.

It is painful to relate that the small capitalists were harder pressed for funds for campaign purposes than ever before, while the large corporations had been doing very nicely in business and were able to set aside large sums for political purposes; the consequence was that Mr. Bryan was second once more.

In 1904 the small capitalists were unable to put up sufficient funds to retain control of the Democratic party. The Wall street capitalists, tired of furnishing large funds to defeat their "small capitalist" opponents, concluded that it would be wise to own both parties.

They found the Democratic politicians, who were weary of waiting for the spoils of office, very docile and easily handled.

At the dictation of the large companies.

At the dictation of the large corporations the Demo-cratic party nominated Mr. Parker for President, and also at their dictation the Republican Party nominated Mr. Roosevelt. Then, as it mattered little which can-didate was elected, they put very little money into the unpaign fund.

At the last moment the large capitalists threw their money and influence to Mr. Roosevelt, as they feare that the election of Mr. Parker would carry with is many congressman who were opposed to the large cor-porations.

In this campaign the small business men in the Demo-cratic Party were very much dissatisfied and many re-

During the next four years, when Mr. Bryan took a trip around the world, he studied economics and politics en route. He discovered that the small business man was passing in all the industrially developed nations.

In the meantime he had been making large sums of money in the Texas oil field in company with Senator Bailey. His pocketbook was growing corpulent and a contented smile was settling over his handsome face.

Mr. Bryan had lost all desire to slay, single handed, an octopus or roll evolution backward.

In the campaign of 1908 we find the platforms of both the Republican and Democratic parties practically identical, plank by plank.

We also notice Mr. Bryan, with a contented purr, accepting the nomination for President. He was then willing to run upon the same platform as the Republican

Is Socialism Only a Dream?

By William E. Clark. (Extract From Speech at Downers Grove.)

When we point out the fact that body," the airship was still a dream No one can seriously deny that. But, ince labor creates all wealth, there until August 7, 1909, when a heavier like the negro slave owner, the capuloborer would demand and secure the Channel and immortalized the name of since labor creates all wealth, there could be no excuse for poverty, if the laborer would demand and secure the full product of his labor; and that the aim of Socialism is to give the laborer the full product of his toll and thus abolish poverty, we are told that Socialism is only a drawn. But also, like the abolitionist dreamer of fifty years ago, the Socialist dreamer of today points out the fact that back of the capitalist's legal ownership of the tools of production, by which he temporarily owns the laborer's job, and therefore his living; back of that is the fact, to quote Lincola again, that "labor is prior to and independent of capital. Capital is only the fruit of labor and never could have existed if labor had not existed first." isted if labor had not existed first." The Socialist dreamer knows that as soon as the worker becomes conscious of his achievements and of his power that the capitalist exploiter will follow the negro slave owner into oblivion; and

It is a day dream that brightens the face of the sweatshop worker, as he dreams of the time when the product of his toil will take possibly himself, but surely his children out of the rented tuberculosis basement and place them into the atmosphere of their own home, in a house with windows on all sides, where both the outer and inner air is pure. Yes, Socialism is a dream. It is

And even though that dream never could come true, it is the sweet never could come true, it is the sweet-est dream that ever engaged the wak-ing hours of the human mind. I would rather dream of the time when, through the abolition of poverty, we may abo-ish the red light districts of our cities, ish the red light districts of our cities, going as they do into sixty thousand homes each year and taking sixty thousand girls to take the places of sixty thousand others sent into an early grave by the revolting diseases produced by such vice. I would rather dream of the time when society could clean out these charnel houses, these cesspools of capitalism, than hug the present nightmare into which each year I see so many children of the working class forced; aye, dragged by economic necessity into a life of shame. And I sak you if it isn't better for you to investigate this dream, the only dream that promises the abolition of poverty, than to content yourself by saying with the exploiters of our labor power that it is only a dream. If you do investigate it, you will soon see that it must come true. Because it is fundamentally builded on natural law.
