JENSEN TACTICS FAIL TO KEEP OUT MILITANTS

Local No. 181 Demands That Hutcherson Act

Harry Jensen's strong arm failed to prevent the illegally expelled members of Carpenters' Local Union No. 181, from attending their union meeting last Monday night. The rank and file insisted that the expelled militants get inside and so they did.

As usual, the chairman refused to open the meeting until the expelled members retired, but as those members have been literally deprived of their membership and consequently of their means of livelihood at this trade, they refused to comply with the autocratic chairman's orders. He was acting under the instructions of Harry Jensen, local strap of "Dear Hutcherson."

"Hutch" is in Florida. It was learned at the meeting that Hutcherson is now enjoying the balm breezes of Florida, and has no time to comply with the demands of Local No. 181, that he give a speedy decision on the appeal of the five members of the chair in expelling the five members.

The meeting did not open until 9:30 p. m. The chairman wanted to "adjourn" the meeting before it opened, but the rank and file insisted on doing business.

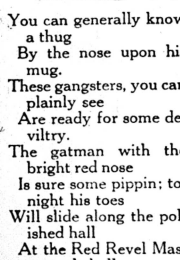

When the chairman decided that he had better open the meeting, motions were made demanding that General President Hutcherson of the International give a speedy decision on the appeal from the illegal ruling of the chair in deciding the five members expelled without consulting with the laws of the brotherhood.

Jensen is furious. The chairman consented to put the motion, despite the frantic appeals of Harry Jensen, who raved around the platform and tried to incite others to use violence. He was advised by the indignant members that if he started any trouble, they would see it through. He therefore, calmed down and was charged to see the motion passed unanimously.

The members are extremely angry over the cold-blooded manner in which the general president refuses to consider their appeal for justice for their fellow workers who were more determined than ever to see that the officials are not going to make a laughing stock out of the law of the organization.

HEROIC DRIVER TELLS STORY OF RACE WITH DEATH IN WILD BLIZZARD TO SAVE NOME VICTIMS

NOME, Alaska, Feb. 3.—Ray's big black dog Balto must get all the credit as far as his part of the journey goes. In the long trail across the snow covered and blizzardy trail was Balto's work that saw when humans were failed.

Balto is the leader of a pack of 13 black dogs that saw when humans were failed. It was my dog's intelligence and the greatest effort.

I wish I could tell you the story of the whole race but I am so sleepy. Leonard Seppala, making a run, 120 miles from Nome, embarked a 40 mile run, near Nome, to deliver the packet of serum to Olson Bluff in Olovir. Olson gave the package to me at Bluff and my leg of the trail.

I left Bluff at 10 p. m. Sunday night. It was a storm all right. I took four hours and 20 minutes to get to the top of the mountain. There was eight feet of snow on the ground at the top of the mountain.

Then how dark! I passed Solomon's road house at Salfy without seeing it. I could not see the trail or the trail marks. Just Balto was there going up and down, up and down.

It was supposed to meet Ed. Rohm, another relay man there, but he was late. I was alone for the rest of the trip. I had to continue on to Nome. I thought it best—better than cause delay looking for him and changing dog harness.

Now the blizzard was abating somewhat. I was alone for the rest of the trip. I had to continue on to Nome. I thought it best—better than cause delay looking for him and changing dog harness.

None was happier in Nome than Kassen's bride, formerly Miss Anna Cassel. She was among the first to greet the musher after his arrival. Kassen is employed by the Hamlet Co. as a mail carrier. He is a friend and associate of Leonard Seppala, the champion musher and with him he has made many perilous treks on the trail.

None of the containders holding the serum from here, which had been planned to thaw out the serum gradually.

Firetrap Relic of World's Fair Days

(Continued from page 1) "I tried to save her but I couldn't make it through the smoke and fire," he said. Yaeger hurried away immediately after the fire, to attend to the funeral of his sister at Hammond, Indiana.

No Way of Escape. J. Roberts told how he carried Mrs. Earl out of the building dying. "Mrs. Earl had no way of escaping from the building except through my door, which was locked," Roberts testified. "Her screams woke me up. I unlocked the door, but could not see Mrs. Earl through the smoke. After taking my wife to a safer part of my apartment, I again looked for Mrs. Earl, and under the smoke saw her lying in the hall. I dragged her out, and took her to the yard. She died yesterday morning. She was trapped."

Doors Locked. Ray G. Overall, a chauffeur, told how the water was not working on the night of the fire. The tenants had to rush to toilets from the hot water faucets, which were the only ones working, Overall said. "I heard a man scream, and then saw the smoke," said Overall, who works on the third floor. "I tried to jump the distance. Galloway first took his wife to a fire escape in a different apartment, but after going for his children, found that he could not get them to the flames to reach his wife again. He then jumped to the ladder below his window."

Maritime Labor Herald Gets Big Advertising By Steel Co. "Exposure" HALIFAX, Can. Feb. 3.—Invaluable publicity for a labor weekly appeared in two Halifax newspapers as a double page advertisement placed by the British Empire Steel Corporation. One page of the ad was a full length reproduction of the Maritime Labor Herald of Jan. 3, edited by J. H. McLachlan, and published at Gloucester, N. S. W.

In that issue the Labor Herald gave considerable space to pointing out to the miners that the best weapon available to fight the corporation is the 100 percent strike.

The minimum circulation of the two dailies—The Halifax Herald and Morning Chronicle, in which the ad appeared, is 10,000. It is noted that the advertising thus accorded the labor paper has increased its weekly circulation by 150 copies and that subscriptions are coming in from points never before touched by the paper.

AMNESTY GRANTED FORMER ENEMIES BY SOVIET RUSSIA

ROSTOV ON DON, Russia.—Amnesty has been extended to all those who have been in the past allied themselves with the Wrangel and Denikin anti-Soviet army. Premier Lenin has ordered that all those who were in the past allies of the Wrangel and Denikin anti-Soviet army.

On his return to Russia after the collapse of the counter-revolutionary campaign will have their previous positions restored. In announcing amnesty, Premier Rykoff said:

"The past must be buried; we must establish greater unity among all nationalities in the district; we must lighten the labor of the people; we must forget all that occurred during the civil war. We must establish the electoral rights of the whole population."

"The government has sufficient proof that those who opposed the Bolshevik regime are ready now to engage in peaceful labor, having recognized that their hostility toward us was a mistake."

M. Rykoff announced further that certain categories of peasants and workmen would also be liberated from prison. That a government would annul the greater part of the old agricultural tax which was levied on peasants for several years past.

"In doing this," continued the premier, "we are not desiring to create in northern Caucasia a situation which shall bring all into conflict with the writers of the Soviet Union."

SUFFERERS FROM IRISH FAMINE WELCOME DEATH

Children Are Shoeless and Hungry DUBLIN, Feb. 3.—Relief associations began to receive word from the famine-stricken west Ireland today. Depressing reports come from Galway. Travelers told of abject children with hunger indelibly imprinted on their faces. Mothers wept as they described the appalling scenes of under-nourishment; and dejected men, all unemployed and living on their wretched scraps of bread. Death has not made any great inroads on these people, but many would welcome death, travelers said rather than continue to endure the daily pangs of hunger and suffering from the cold.

Seven in Two Rooms. One they but housed a family of seven in two rooms. All day long they groaned about a window of spider web that gives off so little heat it could be picked up from the hearth.

Another cabin of two rooms holds a family of twelve who sleep in two beds and the greatest amount of the hearth. Even the hovellike homes of these people appear to add to their misery about the stoves and the roofs and stone walls hold moisture until the sun dries it out.

POWERS ANXIOUS TO AVOID FIGHT OVER PATRIARCH

(Special to The Daily Worker) PARIS, Feb. 3.—The British, French and Italian governments are anxious to avoid getting involved in hostilities because of the rupture between Turkey and Italy over the expulsion of the Greek patriarch from Constantinople.

The three governments are endeavoring to prevent the capture of the Greek patriarch and Turkey from developing into an open break. Greek Workers' Goal. Reports indicate that the expulsion of the patriarch came from Greece, but the Greek workers are bent upon preventing any such action of shedding any of their blood in order to salvage the dignity of the bourgeoisie. They have been wounded when the Turks divided the religious leader to take up his bed and his staff.

As England and France, and the two nations most interested in the doing so, have been unable to prevent the fight for war, it is likely that the incident will become part of history with no more horrible results than several score headlines.

Chicago Journal Was Not Turned Over To Its Employes by the Owner

By J. LOUIS ENODAHLE

TODAY, all the world is told that John C. Eastman, late editor and owner of the Chicago Journal, has left that publication to its employes. "LEAVES JOURNAL TO EMPLOYEES," says the big headline in the Journal itself, which should leave no doubt about it.

On these things, the world indicates that Chicago's workers, at least those employed on the Journal, were to have a daily paper of their own. By employes one violates the printers, the stereotypers, the millers, the pressmen, the office staff, the workers in the editorial rooms, even the newsies.

But no one is kept long in doubt as to the real facts behind the misleading headlines. The paper doesn't go to the employes at all. The workers on the Journal were never in the mind of the publisher, Eastman, when he made his will.

The much heralded "employes" consist merely of three high officials of the Chicago Journal company: Eastman's only business associate. Take a good look at them: W. Frank Dunn, president; O. L. Hall, vice-president; and H. C. Deuter, treasurer.

The Journal had to be continued after Eastman's death. It wasn't in the nature of things that he could take it along with him. Someone had to have the ownership of the paper. The "employes" certainly didn't get it. The workers, all the way from reporters to pressmen, have shown no interest in the Journal today, than they had before Eastman died. This title is lodged, according to the best traditions of private ownership, in the hands of the business trio, to whom Eastman turned over the property.

It isn't written in the newspaper game, no more than in any other industry, that the workers should get control under democratic ownership. But things that are old are ready for death. There is really no reason for the continued existence of The Journal; no more than there is for the Evening Post-Vie Lawson's "open shop" Daily News, and the scandal mongering Evening American, and the Hearst property, thoroly cover the field. They give the master class all the service that it really needs. It should, therefore, not be surprising to have shown no interest in the Journal today, than they had before Eastman died. This title is lodged, according to the best traditions of private ownership, in the hands of the business trio, to whom Eastman turned over the property.

The consolidation of the various capitalist newspapers, however, increases the necessity of the workers building their own press. The Journal proclaims that it has "steadfastly fought on the side of law and order, public decency, and the business of the workers (Communist) Party. The DAILY WORKER welcomes the consolidation of the forces of its enemy. It sees in the growing capitalist press monopoly, the developing solidarity of its enemy, that must be broken up by the workers of the nation.

The DAILY WORKER belongs to workers. It is their weapon wielded by the American Communist Party movement. Its triumph record shows that the workers can successfully conduct a class organ of their own. The DAILY WORKER is the forerunner of many DAILY WORKERS, to come in all the big centers of the nation.

John C. Eastman's death marked the passing of the last of the private owners and personal editors of an American newspaper. The DAILY WORKER makes the joint effort of workers to build a press of their own; one of the chief weapons, not only in crushing the opposition capitalist press, but in helping to abolish the whole capitalist system; when the workers will take over the world.

TURK CAPITALISTS APOLOGIZE TO RUSS WORKERS AND PEASANTS

(Special to The Daily Worker) CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 3.—As a result of the insulting conduct of Turkish police, who surrounded the Soviet steamer "Lenin" a few weeks ago at this port and would allow no one to land or go aboard, the Turkish capitalist government has been helping to abolish the whole capitalist system; when the workers will take over the world.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Had Big Memorial for Karl Liebknecht SYRACUSE, N. Y., Feb. 3.—The Young Workers' League held a memorial meeting for Karl Liebknecht and Rosa Luxemburg, in Educational Club Hall, Syracuse, N. Y. A one-act play, "The Schoolgirl," written by Comrade Franz Gardner was well given. Comrade Charlotte Moskowitz took the part of a working class mother and Comrade Edna Dunn, that of a schoolgirl.

There was also a piano solo by David Durky; interpretative dances by Caroline Deane; memorial songs by W. W. L. choruses; three memorial poems by Comrade Charlotte Moskowitz and a talk on "Why you should know W. W. L.'s by Comrade Dorof.

The meeting was very well attended and several joined the league. David Postmaster gave a talk on Marxism at the last regular meeting. The Workers' Relief Committee is planning a moving picture, Feb. 5 matinee and evening of "From Death to Life" giving a story of Russian workers. This will be at the Alhambra Theatre.

SOCIALISTS IN MILD QUARREL WITH HERRIOT

Against Him on Papal Compromise

PARIS, Feb. 3.—Leon Blum, leader of the socialist party in the French Chamber of Deputies, and Premier Herriot's foreign policy toward the Vatican which his party supported last week after Herriot threatened to resign if the socialist withdrew their support.

In secret caucus prior to the session of the chamber, the socialist decided by a vote of 27 to 13 to refrain from voting on Herriot's proposal to establish an Alaco-Lorraine diplomatic mission to the Vatican.

The Italian indiscretions which they would vote for Herriot in the event Herriot could be a vote of confidence in the government.

Wall Street's Toils The socialists are anxious to stand in the good graces of the American capitalists, as shown by Blum's speech during which he said: "We can consider that Germany is practically disarmed. We prevented the chamber from adopting a resolution which placed the armaments we do not wish America to believe that the entire chamber approved of the plan. The French government created the U. S. for demanding payment of her war debt.

Senator Borah Wants to Talk Money with Mussolini's Bandits

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, wants the Italian government to talk money with Mussolini's bandits. As a step toward bringing that delicate question to public attention, he has addressed a letter to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, a well-known admirer of the fascists, demanding that the government repay the amount Italy owes to the United States government and when the credit is restored.

The amount of the Italian debt, with interest added is now about $2,000,000,000. It is known that Borah's proposals looked toward a settlement of the Italian debt. They are not popular with Benito Mussolini.

"Big Five" Packers Violate Law and Plot More Grabs

(Special to The Daily Worker) WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Charging that the packers violated the anti-trust degree, Senator Frazer, republican of Iowa, has addressed a letter to the senate to snare his bill placing the packing industry under the direct control of the federal trade commission.

Frazer urged haste, he said, because it is removed from the national agenda, forbidding the packers from engaging in "unrelated industries" was to be set forth in the new free government regulation.

Tinker with Leaky Law to Restrain New Jersey Bosses

NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 3.—An amendment to the disputed 10-night-work law, which provides for a fine of $50 for first violation and $200 for second is being prepared for presentation to the legislature today.

The new law was imperative for lack of penalties. It provides against work by women between 10 p. m. and 6 a. m. and is being fought by a group of textile mill industry and gas factories.

The Machinists' Lodge 237, E. A. and 350, also Painters' Local 275 and 637, passed the resolution supporting the Labor Defense Council in its fight to free the Communist victims of the Michigan "criminal syndicates" gas law. The resolution, in part declares:

Militants Remind Workers of Their Power

The coal miners of District 26 Nova Scotia have been asked to accept a cut in wages by the British Empire Steel Corporation. The reasons advanced by the corporation are:

There will be no meeting of the Chicago Defense Council this Saturday afternoon at the Chicago Hotel.

Fakers Foiled by Militants

At the 4th meeting in January of 1937, I. A. M. of (Auto Mechanical) of Pittsburgh, Pa., the nominations were held over until the last meeting of the month in an effort to try and get over the Anderson trial. The T. U. E. Let's Hear From You

At the last meeting of your industrial or local general group take up this matter and see that some one in each industry is selected and held responsible for the sending in of reports on strikes, election campaigns, trade union activities, political activities, injunctions, child labor, criminal syndicates, etc. in your industry. It is not necessary that your reports, no matter how small they may appear to be.

Whereas, we the members of the Miners' Union of America, are face to face with the most severe crisis in the history of an industry, and an industrial union due to unemployment, and starvation resulting from same, which is eating at the very foundation of our very life and union, and causing unpeakable misery and hardship, and

ANDREW CUTS MORE TEACHERS FROM PAYROLL

25 Classes Disbanded to "Cut Expense"

Twenty-five school teachers were fired by Superintendent of Schools McAndrew yesterday at the close of the school semester of the year.

There were 112 regular students at the Chicago Normal school who are waiting for teaching positions.

In addition there are 500 experienced teachers from other cities who have passed examinations but who were forced to fill in at substitute work.

Theater Is Hit By $2,000 Judgment for Denying Negro Rights

Judgment for $2,000 against the Tivoli Theater company of Chicago has been won by a colored man, Leon W. Headen, in a case fought to recover for expulsion from the theater.

Mr. Headen charged that he purchased tickets for a performance at the theater and when the tickets were presented, it was endeavored to make him and his companion, Miss Lillian F. Foster, sit in another part of the house than that to which their tickets entitled them.

On the trial two actions, one brought for the civil rights law, and the other for libel and battery, were presented.

The judge will serve a writ upon a number of houses in Chicago that they accept discrimination against colored people with impunity.

NEW HAVEN R. R. SHOPMEN, BETRAYED AND SENT BACK DEFEATED, WANT AMALGAMATION

By WILLIAM SIMONS. (Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 3.—Shopmen called together by a press notice yesterday were informed at a meeting in Trades Council Hall that their international officers had called off the strike.

The reason given was that it was for the best interests of the men to go back for the railroad refused to treat with the men. It was announced by a host man that a delegation had been named to meet the railroad, and was kept waiting for hours, day after day, without getting an interview.

A Shock to the Men. This order came rather suddenly. Many strikers, when asked by the DAILY WORKER reporter before the meeting about the continuation of the strike, were at first dumbfounded.

The chairman of System Federation 17, John C. Ready, praised the men for the wonderful fight they had put up, but that was all. Not a word of criticism of the craft form of organization that kept many crafts working, while others were on strike.

What helped take the strike out of the men was the recent betrayal on the part of Joseph Tose, formerly organizer of the Machinists' Union, and elected state senator, who accepted a position with the New York, Ontario and Western railroad which removes him from the working class, and lines him up on the other side of the picket line.

"You wish to see how the fire is made in a smelter? The soldier knows how. He removes a hot anvil instead of a bellows. Come and see how it is done in this 'Beauty and Bolshhevik' to be shown at Ashland Auditorium and Van Dyke, Thursday, Feb. 5, from 7 to 11 p. m. continuously.

They go back licked. Some are disgusted with the unions. The effect of the strike will be to force many men out of the unions who sponsored it. The reporter advised them to stay in the union, and fight the failure; to defeat the R. and O. class, and the officials who sponsored it; to amalgamate their unions.

Amalgamation appealed to them. Unless this issue is raised, there is little hope for their success. The union leaders they acknowledge as mistakes; "The present craft form of organization is correct, but it is not the best; but leave the union as it is."

The New Haven railroad recently announced that the strike had cost them ten million dollars, and that they had kept on the job those who responded to the call to take the strikers' places. They reward the boys, and punish the strikers, and that many will be taken back.

POSTAL WORKERS TO STRIKE SOON, SENATOR WARNS

Cannot Live on Their Present Wages

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Responsibility for the injustices contained in pending postal legislation, but also the bill was drafted squarely upon the administration by senators today, when they announced during debate that they would vote for the measure because there remains no other way of getting a living wage for the 300,000 postal employees.

"This bill is simply put forward here to save the faces of men who wish to maintain the president's veto of the postal salary bill," said Walsh. "But what is the alternative? Four years of poverty and suffering and want for the postal employees; four years of famine, of denial of relief to men who are denied the right to strike and protest against their government's actions."

"I am not going to wait until the postal employees strike. I am going to place the responsibility of increased wages where it belongs, upon the executive department of this government."

Walsh declared that he knew that a Negro family in the city of Washington cannot hire a tenement for less than $60 a month, or $720 a year, and yet the minimum pay of a city policeman is only $1,400 a year.

BUILDERS AT WORK

SHOCKED INTO ACTION!

SOME people really feel that they are doing quite well for the official organs of their party. They do until the monthly list of subscribers for their territory arrives and then they are—actually—shocked!

"Dear Comrades—I was shocked upon receiving the mailing list of the DAILY WORKER for this immediate territory, to see how few subscribers I have on my list."

"Well, we will do all we can to remedy that in the near future. Still, out of that list we get several new names and sent them invitations to our Lenin meeting. HAD RESPONSE FROM ALL BUT ONE!

"Our branch organizer will call upon them very soon. Our DAILY WORKER agent is now tied up at home nursing a very sick husband, but we will get some one else on the job right away. Our branch has instructions to hand in to the branch organizer, the names and addresses of all radically inclined people as fast as possible so he can call upon them, or see that some one else does so."

"The improvement in the Tool Boxes I suggest is a bunch of perforated blanks on which such addresses, those to be deleted and turned over to the branch organizer. If you ask the organizers at a meeting for such addresses, they cannot on the spot of the moment seem to think of hardly any, but thru the week they think of them, or meet the people and then the address blanks would be useful."

ANSWER—The Tool Boxes already have address sheets in them, although they are not perforated. They could be used for this purpose by just tearing them out. For after all, we are always glad to send another—or even many others. Altho we haven't made this our Tool Box slogan you can adopt it. "Go ahead, tear right into the Tool Box, we'll send you another!" The suggestion by Comrade Waters, however, to have perforated sheets for this purpose, is a good one. Something tells us that you will see it in the next improved Tool Box which will carry additional features of lasting value.

Chilren Workers Ruled by Fascists

Clamor for Revolt (Special to The Daily Worker) HEROIC ALIENS, Argentina, Feb. 3.—Clash in the navy of armed forces dominated by army and fascist elements. The sentiment of the masses for workers' revolution is growing. The rich capitalists now dominating the government are recognizing that they forced the workers to undergo compulsory military training as large numbers of workers whose conditions are now miserable are determined to act as working class soldiers.

The Miners' Pay

Starvation is a chronic condition for some 30,000 men, women and children in the mining regions of West Virginia—one of the richest states in the Union.

For three years these miners have been locked out by the coal companies and have suffered untold hardships. Lately there has been renewed activity on their behalf and food and clothing is being collected.

It is largely from the non-union mines of West Virginia that coal comes which displaces union mined coal in other markets and it is in this non-union territory that furnishes the ammunition with which the coal operators' association bombards the United Mine Workers of America.

The common sense policy would be to put the whole strength of the union behind an organization drive in this state, but the reactionary Lewis administration prefers to revoke charters in union territory and disrupt the once splendidly organized United Mine Workers of America.

It is doubtful if the misery of the West Virginia miners would have been brought to the attention of the labor movement at this time at all if it were not for the fact that non-union mines owned by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers are located in this district and the Lewis administration can find plenty of time to fight this game of cockroach capitalism with whom it has a personal feud.

Massville the rank and file with whose lives both groups play, exist in tents in the bitter winter weather and starve.

This is one of the conditions that makes for the growth of the revolutionary left wing movement. It is a condition that will vanish only when both sets of betrayers have been kicked out neck and crop, and the American labor movement rallied to the program of the Trade Union Educational League.

Poincare Speaks Thru Herriot

The French chamber of deputies by a vote of 541 to 82 approved the posting of Premier Herriot's reactionary speech in relation to Germany. The officials at first announced that they would vote against the posting on the ground that the speech was too reactionary.

Only the Communists and a few other deputies voted against Herriot. Some of the socialists outdid the nationalists in jingoism. The Poincarets declared that Herriot was a convert to their side, so they voted unanimously to support him.

"As far as labor is concerned," declared Mrs. Philip Snowden, wife of the chancellor of the exchequer in Ramsay MacDonald's government, "the throne is established forever." It is only necessary to say that Mrs. Snowden is a leading British socialist and is dead set against the Communists. She dearly loves her king.

Landlords, Courts and Tenants

Former patriots who could see no connection between landlords and agencies of the capitalist state power like the courts, for instance, are having their eyes opened in New York.

A federation of rentpayers' associations who have been battling the landlords for some time have been advised, then, the conviction and sentencing of one of its officers to a year in the penitentiary, that courts and judges are institutions and individuals functioning for the protection of landlords and other thieves whose profession is legalized.

Captain Harry Allen Ely, president of a tenants' association, called a certain judge a "numbknuckle" in an article in the official organ of the association and the association of landlords took care to see that the article was brought to the attention of this ornament of the New York bench with the result above set forth. The courts, of course, are not in any way critical, we are told, but we notice that none of those who indulge in searching criticism of the judiciary land in the boogaroo as did the captain whose long record of service in war time which he naively reasoned would save him, failed to keep him out of the Tombs—the first stop on the way to Sing Sing.

It is to be hoped that this experience will have the effect of convincing the members of the tenants' association, in spite of their middle-class character and leadership, that any fight against landlordism and kindred evils is useless unless it recognizes that all the legal appendages of capitalism, legislators, courts, judges, police and military, are lack of the landlords and the private property interests they personify.

The frenzied fear that even the mildest form of protest against landlordism and its kept courts arouses in the parasitic element is shown by the severe sentence handed out to the worthy captain who in all probability looks upon American capitalist government as the supreme achievement of the human race.

The captain gains out of jail he should take a walk to the New York headquarters of the Workers (Communist) Party and find out the real reason why he was incarcerated.

The Austrian Debacle

Austria, the little country that has been used as a laboratory by the league of nations and whose working class has been forced into the role of guinea pigs by the imperialist experimenters, has collapsed.

Even the injections of gold serum and the cowardly submission of the social-democrats to Zimmerman, the receiver appointed by the league, has failed to do the impossible—repair the damage of war, rebuild industry and feed the population in a country stripped of its resources and partitioned among the allied nations.

The working class of Austria has gone thru hell while the experiment was in progress and today stands as a living—barely living—example of the hopelessness of a working class that allows itself to have faith in capitalism.

The Austrian breakdown creates another serious problem for the imperialists and this problem cries for solution at a time when political crises hold the stage in almost every important European nation. Three avenues of escape, all of them of a temporary nature, are open to the allied powers. First, Austria can become part of a Danube federation that would strengthen the little nations and in all probability upset French plans in that sector.

Second, Austria can become again a part of the German nation with a resultant strengthening of the working class forces which neither the German or allied capitalists view with anything but fear. Third, Austria can become an Italian protectorate and thus assume an implacable enmity in the Balkan states that might mean a new war.

The Communists alone can look at the new situation created by the Austrian debacle with equanimity, confident that it is additional proof that capitalism cannot solve its post-war problems and that with the growing strength of the Communist parties in all European nations, that continent steps closer and closer to the path blazed by the revolutionary workers and peasants of Soviet Russia.

More Trouble for Fascist Spain

Rainal, the Spanish government's only consequence in Morocco, has surrendered to Spain's most formidable enemy, Abdel-Krim, who has inflicted defeat after defeat on the Spaniards. His latest conquest renders the position of Spain in Morocco untenable.

The chief of Rainal was purchased by Spain last October for a large sum of money. He took to the hills with his treasure and remained there ever since, feigning illness. Krim, however, was more than a match for the forces of Dictator Primo de Rivera.

The Spanish directorate allocated 1,000,000 pesetas for the purpose of "demoralizing and corrupting" the enemy. This means bribing the native chieftains. Thru his victory over Rainal, Abdel-Krim has access to whatever part of this million is still untouched by the recipient. Spain's treasure turned out to be a gift to her foe.

The prospects for Spain retaining her precarious hold much longer on Morocco is not bright. But as soon as Spain quits the other and more powerful capitalist nations will step in. The continued robbery and exploitation of the people of Morocco and other underdeveloped parts of the earth can only be prevented by the working class.

Workers Party and T. U. E. L. Anthracite Miners

By JOSEPH HANLEY

THE return to work of the 15,000 anthracite strikers employed by the Pennsylvania coal company, marks a new point in the struggle of the rank and file of the miners union against John L. Lewis, and his policy of class-collaboration rule.

This is the same conciliation board developed out of the commission appointed by Roosevelt to settle the 1932 strike. This conciliation board, composed of three representatives of the operators and three of the miners and an umpire paid by both sides, has little power to settle anything. Its only function has been to create the illusion among some of the miners that thru it they could get redress for their grievances. But there is a growing realization that the various grievances filed that the conciliation board is but one of the cogs in the wheels of the giant machine that is destroying their hard won gains.

Had a militant leadership been at the head of this strike it would have been an entirely different turn. Such a militant leadership would have rallied the strikers in mass meetings; it would have organized a general strike of all workers in the anthracite field; it would have organized the struggle into a general strike of all workers in the anthracite field; it would have organized the struggle into a general strike of all workers in the anthracite field.

By EARL R. BROWDER

THE reason that "co-operation" (in the sense of the consumers' co-operative movement) is not the answer to solve the problems of the working class; is that we are living under capitalism, which, under the forms of parliamentary democracy and the dictatorship of the capitalist class upon the toiling masses. Until this dictatorship of the bourgeoisie is broken, and the power of the working class made supreme, the working class must concentrate its main attention upon crystallizing its class leadership and mobilizing its class forces, for the struggle against capitalism.

Co-operation Can Help in Class Struggle.

The co-operative movement can be used to the advantage of the workers in their struggle, provided it is organized and led on the basis of the fundamental class struggle. Co-operation between the workers—struggle between the workers and the bourgeoisie—this is the form for a successful co-operative movement.

Unfortunately the co-operative movement is largely dominated by middle-class reformers who are confused and perilous influence over the workers. They set up the false goal, the reformist Utopia of "co-operation" between the bourgeoisie on the one hand and sections of the bourgeoisie on the other hand. This co-operation of classes is the very worst of all class movements at its very phases. It must be combated everywhere, by all means, and particularly in the co-operative movement it is strongest.

The co-operatives can become instruments of working class emancipation only to the extent that the dictatorship of the bourgeoisie is driven out and destroyed, and the co-operative movement drawn into the whole class struggle.

Task of Revolutionary Workers.

What should the revolutionary workers do when they face a workers' co-operative movement which is dominated by these harmful ideas of class collaboration which the bourgeoisie and the workers? Should they refuse to participate, or should they enter the co-operative movement? The answer is that revolutionary workers should always take part in every activity which engages large numbers of workers. And it is precisely there where the bourgeoisie ideas are strongest that the revolutionary workers will find the most fruitful work to be done—in combatting these wrong ideas.

All revolutionary workers should join the workers' co-operative movement, engage actively in its work and energetically advocate the following program:

present inevitable ending. This leadership is not the kind that will lead the anthracite miners to escape from the iron grip of the anthracite monopoly.

A Policy of Struggle Warranted. This anthracite monopoly, headed by the world banker Morgan, can only be successfully opposed by the type of leadership that accepts a policy of class struggle rather than one of class collaboration. The class struggle type of leadership must be the old fashioned ideas of property rights of the native population.

Wages here in the past just existing are not the kind of wages of one's own home. In addition, the many textile mills scattered all thru the anthracite region are providing jobs for the miners' daughters, while their sons worked in the coal breaker.

All this is changing. The miners are now rebelling against, not alone their own miserable working conditions, but against this system of child labor which is the most heinous feature upon a better education for their children than they themselves received.

The Party and T. U. E. L. Conference

To more effectively carry on this struggle an important conference has just been held at which was represented:

WHY CO-OPERATION IS NOT ENOUGH

(1.) The co-operatives cannot be neutral in the political struggle, but must always support the working class in its political struggles against the bourgeoisie.

(2.) The co-operatives should assist in mobilizing the masses in direct struggle for control of markets, prices, etc.

(3.) The co-operatives must support the political and industrial struggle of the workers morally and financially, and must take an especially active part in relief of class-war victims.

(4.) The co-operatives must continuously renew their controlling bodies FROM THE RANKS OF THE WORKERS IN THE SHOPS AND FACTORIES.

(5.) The co-operatives must fight "Business Morality."

(6.) A continual ideological struggle must be carried on against the bourgeoisie "business morality" which constantly comes to the co-operatives, while they must use the technique of capitalist business, must reject at all costs capitalist ideas, becoming always more and more united with the workers in their struggle against capitalism and its instruments of suppression and exploitation.

Co-operation is therefore not enough! The workers must use the technique of capitalist business, must reject at all costs capitalist ideas, becoming always more and more united with the workers in their struggle against capitalism and its instruments of suppression and exploitation.

It is the task of revolutionary workers to enter earnestly into the co-operative movement with this program before them and to see that the goal of all workers, then it may become a valuable and powerful instrument in the arsenal of the working class.

Pinioned Under Rock; Collins Nears Death

One hundred and fifty feet below the entrance to Land Cave, in the Texas mountains, lies Floyd Collins who for more than a month has watched the engineering skill of the state pit his craft against the boulder which has pinned him in the cave. Today for the first time he gave way and made a plea for death.

Klan Senator Gets His Beat WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—The senate today unanimously defeated the contested election case against Sen. Earle B. Mayfield, dem. Tex. The whole action of seating Sen. Mayfield, was taken by the senate in less than two minutes. There was not even a demand for a record vote.

THE WORKERS MONTHLY

A PANORAMIC view of the present struggles of the left wing militants in the American trade unions, is the article by Wm. T. Power in the February issue of the Workers Monthly. Just such articles as this have established the combined journal and made it the most successful in the history of the Workers Monthly. These articles are always written with that clarity of thought and that clarity of expression which has made the Workers Monthly a valuable information source for the workers.

fact the other presenters. So many other features were included it is difficult to do justice in a few words. Charles E. Johnson's article "The Sixth Trade Union Congress of the U. S. E. R." from the title alone gives hint of its value. It is an interesting study of labor in the first world's workers' government.

Twelve interesting articles are included in "The Fine Art of Greasing the Skids" by J. O'Hara, whose work and satire seen daily in the "All Day See It" column in the DAILY WORKER, is sparkling in this month's issue.

An international review, with photographs, drawings and sketches by such artists as Boudou, W. C. P. P., Ray Baker and J. de la Cruz, is out on issue that deserves a special mention for its graphic and beautiful labor journals—it is also.
