TEACHERS SEEK HIGHER SALARIES IN NEW YORK FIGHT

Governor Smith Vetoes Increased Pay

NEW YORK, July 8.—(UP)—New York City teachers are continuing their fight for an increase in salary that will bring their earnings up to the purchasing value of 1914 wages. Governor Smith has vetoed a salary compromise, says in announcing the teachers' plans to go before the state legislature.

The teachers are demanding the same 10 per cent increase that the state legislature has voted by Governor Smith. Representatives of the teachers' Union and other interested organizations proposed to the board of education a public hearing on the salary scale proposed by the teachers' union. The board has refused to grant the $4,000 higher pay principle, high school teachers' salaries are to be increased by 10 per cent, and the increase given to the underpaid elementary and lower secondary teachers.

Over 10,000 teachers are behind the demand for a higher scale.

LOS ANGELES FAKER IN CLAIM WHICH INVESTIGATION PROVES FALSE; JOB SHARKS THRIVING

LOS ANGELES, July 8.—This would not have been written if it had not been for the critical investigation of the treasurer of the Los Angeles County District Court of Carpenters and published in the Southern California Labor Review of June 24 in which he was exposed as a faker.

On this basis the law establishing public employment offices, in regard to such things as "Blacks the enactment of the law, private employment offices have been compelled to comply with the law. It was not until July 1, and now no one need pay for a job."

Same Old Stuff.

I look upon myself to look into this matter and find its assertion to be a lie. There is no law that forces you to pay for a job as much as they ever were. There is no law that private agencies have offered from competition from the north part of the island. They state that all anti-social elements left the place long ago. Alexander was found to be in good order; the town has more progress than ever, it is best proved by the fact that the majority of them have moved to better homes. There are more speculators, agents, while those workers seeking employment. There is more or less real top employment. The law establishing public employment offices, in regard to such things as "Blacks the enactment of the law, private employment offices have been compelled to comply with the law. It was not until July 1, and now no one need pay for a job."

Working Men Beware.

It is in the name of the law that the private agencies sell the fees with no return. They have no return for the center for getting his help from them, even going so far as to charge you $500 for a job. They are not making it so miserable for them that they will not take your money.

Business Without Failure.

The free public employment office did not put him out of business, nor did it take his business away from him. It is a business without failure, at least.

If this law had really been of such effect, the laborer it would have been a success. It would have been a success. It would have been a success. It would have been a success.

MAJOR GRUBB DISAPPOINTED BY INDIFFERENCE OF OMAHA CROWD TO HIS CALL TO ARMS FOR U. S.

OMAHA, Neb., July 8.—July 8th pleaders reacted to enthusiasm over militarization in Omaha. With a park full of people eating back lunches and people from all over the city, a crowd of 200 men, women and children, an equal number of soldiers. A special appeal was made to them but they did not budge. They came to picnic, about 100 officers, drink and tobacco were sold, and the crowd simply ignored the military spellbinders and the marchers for imperialism.

Evolution, Capitalism and the Workers

In no other advanced capitalist nation could such a trial take place as that opening at Dayton, Tennessee, today. That John Scopes, a teacher in a public school, can be brought to trial for teaching evolution as a law of nature, under a law enacted by the Tennessee legislature, is evidence of the retarded development of a whole section of the United States.

The south is not yet industrialized. It is dominated intellectually by feudal conceptions which are not found in the great industrial centers where the masses are either irreligious or lukewarm towards orthodox religion.

It is noticeable that the great metropolitan centers are on the side of evolution. It is dominated intellectually by feudal conceptions which are not found in the great industrial centers where the masses are either irreligious or lukewarm towards orthodox religion.

It was rising capitalism that brought about the Reformation—the restrictions placed upon independent industry and the rigidly organized commercial program difficult and the merchant class broke the power of the Roman church.

Thereafter an orthodoxy in religion has been used to capitalism it has become an ideology, but the ethics of christianity have never been allowed to interfere with business—the bourgeoisie have two codes as a laborer to exploit his own or their private lives.

Between the two a constant struggle takes place with the result that the best christian businessmen are the biggest hypocrites.

There is much to interest the working class in what is taking place in that little mountain town, though real reaction is in the middle class. It is therefore evident that within that class is a deep division.

There is typically of the middle class liberal professional intellectual—individualistic, a believer in personal liberty, educated and cultured.

He represents the agrarian element in the middle class—he is a leader of the well-to-do farmers of the middle west and of the south whose economic interests are opposed to those of big capitalism. He is a defender of the middle class as Greenbackers, Populists and Free Silverites, rallying always around some chimerical scheme of currency reform in which was expressed their faith in the increasing control of industry and finance by the big capitalists.

The city and the town—these are the two forces in opposition to one another in Dayton. The one is the industrial bourgeoisie, the other the attraction of the ruralites to the ridgeless heaped upon them in the metropolitan press as part of his campaign in defense of the dogma that a species of man was created by God.

In Great Britain this struggle was fought out during the 80's and 90's. The complete victory of British capitalism over feudalism was attained by the bourgeoisie and the rise of the industrial capitalism with the proletarianization of the overwhelming majority of the British masses, was accompanied by the spread of rationalistic and scientific ideas. The struggle was fought out on the Darwinian theory; pamphlets by Huxley, Lyell, McCabe, Allen; the works of Leckie and Hasel, Lubbock and Romanes.

But it was not until the dominant capitalist class had found in the Darwinian theory of the "survival of the fittest" a justification for their oppression of the working class that opposition to the theory declined to become a mere academic. The jungle law of "survival of the fittest" seemed to them to be eminently fitted for their period. Nature itself had placed the seal of approval upon British capitalism and all its works, they claimed, and this distorted Darwinism became the petted darling of the lords of call and steel.

It may be well to say here that capitalism wailed if ever intervened in the struggle. It was not until the dominant capitalist class in physics, chemistry, biology, anthropology, astronomy, geology and other sciences are encouraged. It is the sociological sciences where the great literature of the bourgeoisie has been written. The scientist that are frowned upon by the ruling class. Academic freedom curtailed only when the results of scientific research tend to expose the hypocrisy and weakness of the ruling class and weaken it or strengthen the working class.

Modern science is the handmaiden of capitalist production and this it does as earnestly it is not going to destroy.

If we want to see the dominant capitalist class in abstract freedom and not social freedom that the metropolitan press defends in the Scopes case we have only to compare the amount and the kind of publicity given it to another recent case. The jungle law of "survival of the fittest" seemed to them to be eminently fitted for their period. Nature itself had placed the seal of approval upon British capitalism and all its works, they claimed, and this distorted Darwinism became the petted darling of the lords of call and steel.

There was a class case. The question involved was the constitutional right to advocate the overthrow of American capitalist government and all its works, they claimed, and this distorted Darwinism became the petted darling of the lords of call and steel.

With a few strokes of the pen the United States supreme court voided the constitutional clause that forbade the government to prosecute under criminal syndicalism laws in 25 states and placed the whole working class in jeopardy.

It is not to be expected that the bourgeoisie will be any more lenient in the prosecution of Scopes case a chorus of approval for the action in the Illinois case.

It is one more thing in connection with the Scopes case and the anti-evolution law under which he is tried that is of grave importance to the working class. It may be certain that in spite of the trial to the extent that it has been held in Tennessee that if the Tennessee law is upheld and other states adopt similar measures they will be used freely by the capitalist class to suppress all rationalistic and scientific ideas.

Just as the criminal syndicalism laws were adopted as measures for the curbing of enemy radicals and then used against the workers, so the anti-evolution law will be used against the means of jaffing the most intelligent and militant workers.

Invoked for this purpose they will be objects of praise instead of denunciation in the capitalist press.
