INDUSTRIALIZE AGRICULTURE IN SOVIET RUSSIA

Captain Hibben Tells of Training School

New Orleans, (P)—Action rather than participation and talk is necessary to make the world over for himself, Captain Hibben told the League for Mutual Aid upon his latest return from Russia. Hibben was first arrested in 1905 for the U. S. diplomatic corps.

Russia's salvation is in industrial production, Hibben said. Hibben said that machine agriculture will take thousands of individuals from the land to the city. Hibben said that Russia has a great advantage over the United States in that it has a large population of workers. The American Federation of Labor and the Movement for World Trade Union Unity

In policy and organizational forms the American Federation of Labor is one of the most backward trade union movements in the world.

The bitterest sort of craft prejudices are systematically inculcated into the membership of the various unions.

Not only regarding membership do jurisdictional quarrels break out, but also regarding the work to be done by each union.

As the matter of fact the A. F. of L. unions have merely organized the fringe of the workers of America.

According to the census there are 4,161,282 persons over ten years of age gainfully employed in the United States.

The A. F. of L. unions have nearly 3,000,000 million members, and the Railroad Brotherhoods, not affiliated with the A. F. of L., have about three-quarters of a million members.

The food packing industry only a few thousand workers are organized out of the metal industries have very few members and are not industrial.

The automobile industry only a few thousand workers are organized in the lumber industry a few thousand are organized in several craft unions and the independent workers' union only a few thousand are organized in the I. W. of M.

During the world war hundreds of thousands of workers flocked to the unions. For instance, 150,000 textile workers were organized.

Britain's Assault on Communists

The Baldwin government of Great Britain faces a grave situation. On every side it is sorely vexed with the contradictions of capitalism.

The effects to be expected of the exploitation of the peoples of the East means with opposition as the nationalist movements against imperialism will be found in the East.

In the home industries the situation grows steadily worse. The Dawes plan of financial reorganization of British industry.

The outbreak of the automobile race between Russia and the United States.

Incidentally it should not be forgotten that Mr. Ramsey MacDonald was not the only one who participated in the labor party aided and abetted this assault upon labor party.

The objective conditions for a challenge to British imperialism are at hand. Instead of crushing the Communist assaults of the tendency.

For the first time in the history of the world, it is possible to note certain ways of capitalism.
