TAFT DECLARES FOR STRONG NAVY

Ears of League of Purveyors in Tools of Destruction.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 .- Speaking washington, Feb. 23.—Speaking today at the convention of the Navy League, the jingo organization fostered by the big steel, shipbuilding and ammunition interests of the country. President Taft sounded a warning against the Democratic attempt to reduce the size of the battleship fleet.

Until the Panama (anal is completed, Congress, he declared, should provide two battleships every year. Until the waterway is finished, in the President's opinion, the United States really needs two navies, one for each coast, and it would be "dangerous" for Congress, he added, to e onomize by cutting down the naval appropria-tions before the canal is opened.
"I am in favor of a good, strong navy." Taft said, "a navy which we are able to maintain, a navy which will make our reasonable demands upon other countries respected. I don't think the time has come for us don't think the time has come for us to economize with respect to a navy. REGULAR ORGANIZATION GETS PARTY EMBLEM

The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court decided yesterday that the regular organization of a party is entitled to use the party emblem on a primary ballot.

The decision was the outcome of the application by John J. Hopper and William R. Hearst for a writ of mandamus against the Board of Elections directing the board to isnore the provisions of the election law of 1911 in preparing ballots for the spring primaries.

The petitioners asked Justice Bijur to declare those provisions of the law unconstitutional which gave the party organization the party emblem, prohibited the name of any candidates from appearing more than once, and gave the party committee's candidates the space at the left of the ballot. Justice Bijur granted the writ, builthe Appellate Division modifies his order with respect to the emblem. The case also involved the provision of the law that while primaries are to be held elsewhere in the State in the spring, the New York primary was to be in the fall. The Board of Elections conceded that this was an inadvertence and the primary is to be beld here as elsewhere on the last Tuesday of March.

MORE TO WALK OUT

Workers May Tie Up Entire Industry-Police Guard Shops.

Between 4,000 and 5,000 broad silk reavers employed in more than 100 silk mills in Paterson, N. J., went on strike yesterday morning as a result of the refusal of the mill owners to grant the demands of the union for a uniform wage scale.

No Disorder at All.

Caim attended the walkout and there was no disorder whatever. Chief Bimson, of the Police Department, declared that this was the most peaceful strike that has been called in Paterson in the last few years. The strikers all had orders from the Strike Committee not to create any disorder and they obeyed to the letter.

The strikers' headquarters at 262 Market street was besieged from early in the morning until late at night with the workers, who gathered to pay their initiation fee and join the union. All the officers were kept busy filling out applications and accepting the fees from the new members.

While the police could not get a chance to arrest strikers because they were all orderly, they had to show that they were doing something, so they anabled three strikers near the Hall mills, on Fulton street, for distributing circulars calling on the sik wayers to ide the strike. They were tributing circulars calling on the silk weavers to join the strike. They were held in $25 ball each to appear before Recorder Carrell.

"The strike is the result of the four-loom system agitation which was ear-ried on by the union," declared Rus-ried on by the union," declared Rus-ried Palmer, a member of the Strike Committee. "The demands as presented to the employers are for the purpose of establishing a uniform wase scale in the broad silk industry in Paterson." He said the employers are fighting these demands for the reason that the Pennsylvania firms are competing with the local manufacturers and as soon as a settlement is effected organizers will be sent there to establish a uniform wage scale.

WESTERN FIREMEN TO DEMAND WAGE RAISE

CHICAGO. Feb. 23.—Representatives of 35,000 locomotive firemen on roads west of and including the Illinois Central and the Canadian roads west of Fort William are arranging a wage vote to be held in March and a conference May I to count the vote. A request will be made for a conference with managers.

A committee representing eight roads of New York Central system is also preparing schedules here, independent of the Eastern firemen's conference in New York, for the same basis East as West.

Westerm firemen say they must shovel twenty-five to thirty-five tons of coal on a freight run, and fifteen to twenty on five-hour passenger trip. They therefore demand an assistant or fewer hours, probably making eight hours the maximum. They say they will seek Congressional relief if the railroads refuse.

Professor Dean Wants Children Under 16 to Get More Schooling.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 23.-The third annual meeting of the New York State branch of the National Society for the Promotion of Industrial Ed-ucation opened here this evening. The convention brings together a large number of the most prominent ivocates of industrial education in ew York State. Arthur D. Dean, chief of the division of vocational schools, New York State Educational Department, deliv-ered an address on the necessity of introducing a system of co-operative chools, otherwise known as "continuation schools.'

Dean urged an amendment to the Compulsory Education Law which would meet the educational needs of children now employed in the industries and at the same time not plac-ing a hardship on parents. He be-lieved the time was ripe for amend-article in yesterday not be employed in trades and industries, unless their employer is ready clalist Comrades that this was not the and willing to co-operate with the school system so that pupils may attend the day school for a few hours a week, where they may receive further instruction in reading, arithmeter instruction in reading arithmeter in the benefit of some Socialist Comrades that this was not the first collection that was ever made for the benefit of some Socialist Comrades that this was not the first collection that was ever made for the benefit of some Socialist Comrades that this was not the school system so that pupils may attend the day school for a few hours. The performance was quite against the swish of most members of the framous Conservatoire Orchestra, and was only pushed through, thenks to the benevolent obstinacy of the conductor, Jules Carciu. The subscripers could make neither head not tail of it, and the musical authorities were much in the same position. I inquired of one of them—a professor at the Conservatoire, and a kind of factorium on the committee—what he thought of the work. "That, a symphony" he replied in contemptuous tones. GIBBONS KNOCKS LEWIS OUT IN SECOND ROUND

By JOHN J. HAAS.

Mike Gibbons, the St. Paul middleweight, after displaying again his boxing and walloping qualities, knocked out Willie Lewis in the second round last night at the Empire A. C. The bell saved Lewis, in the first round. Lewis had been "tumbled" for a long count, and got up, ready for a knockout, when the gong pealed sweet music to his ears and saved him the journey for a while.

There, well, you seep-out Franck's music may be related to the conservation of the Conservatoire in the year of grace 1889.

At another door of the concert hall, the composer of "Faust" escorted by a train of adulators, male and femile, fullminated a kind of papal decree to the effect that this symphony was the affirmation of incompetence pushed to dogmatic lengths. For increting and disinterestedness we must turn to the composer himself, when, on his return from the concert, his whole family surrounded him, asking eggerly for news. "Well, were you satisfied with the effect on the public? ENGLAND'S INDUSTRIAL CRISIS

Whatever may be the future possibilities of the general strike in this country, it is beyond question that in Great Britain at least it is at the present time a most deadly weapon for the purpose of accel-erating the overthrow of the established order there.

he great strike of coal miners, which, if it materializes, will directly involve some 800,000 men, and indirectly several millions, is due in a few days now, unless the demands of the miners for a minimum wage are conceded, and the tremendous dislocation of industry it portends has already compelled the Government to take the initiative in an attempt to avert its realization. Thoroughly alive to the danger of the situation, the Premier himself has taken a hand in the matter for the purpose of reaching an agreement that may render the strike unnecessary. The class war between labor and capital, once regarded as merely a local struggle between antagonistic groups, has evolved not only into a national question, but the national question that transcends all others in importance.

For it is plain to all that the British workers are approaching solidarity of interest that will make them practically invincible and force the cession of their demands on peril of paralyzing the entire industrial activities of the kingdom, all of which are actually and immediately dependent upon the continuance of the coal supply. It is a position of advantage that the workers themselves are fast learning how to make the most of. Their experience last year, when they were robbed of the fruits of victory by the duplicity or folly of some of their leaders and the cunning of their exploiters, will stand them in good stead in the coming strike, if it should materialize. They are in a position to compel their opponents to "agree with their adversaries quickly" lest worse befall. Better still, this growth of solidarity is not endangered by the workers of the Continent, for it is tolerably certain that in case the British capitalists look for supplies there, the coal miners of France, Belgium and Germany may also lay down their tools. The day when European exploiters could depend upon an interchange of scabs or scab products in case of strikes is fast drawing to a close.

The only country from which a supply of coal can be secured is the United States, and though some has already been exported, fortunately it is not possible to secure an adequate supply here, and were it attempted our coal miners might have something to say in the matter also.

The British plutocrats have played their last card in urging the fear of a German invasion, with the British fleet helpless for lack of fuel. But the miners have rightly remained deaf to this "patriotic" plea, the last refuge of the exploiting scoundrel. Germany is not likely to interfere. Her ruling classes know instinctively that it isn't exactly healthy to butt into the labor troubles of a neighbor. know only too well that they have much more material for trouble of that character on their own hands, that might make matters particularly unpleasant as regards interference at such a time. The existence of millions of German Socialists is a tolerably matters particularly unpleasant as regards interference at such a time. The existence of millions of German Socialists is a tolerably fair guarantee to the British workers that they will be left a free hand to deal with their own bourgeoise.

We sincerely hope that the British miners may not recede one step or abate their full demands in the slightest. They have got their exploiters where the hair is short and can make them come to their exploiters where the hair is short and can make them come to time, if they but stand firm and united, and with the lesson of the robbed of the fruits of their victory by the cunning and sophistry of their vanouished opponents.

It is about time that the absurd and ridiculous anomaly of a handful of useless parasites "owning" the mineral resources of the kingdom should be put an end to. If these curmudgeons will not or cannot grant a minimum wage—and the miners are not asking anything extortionate—it is up to the government to nationalize their property and secure to the workers what the private owners will not yield. The same procedure, too, is likely to be the first step in the railroad problem, and it looks as if the general strike, or the threat of it, will compel government ownership as a first attempt to meet the situation. At any rate, for the time being it cannot be denied. railroad problem, and it looks as if the general strike, or the threat of it, will compel government ownership as a first attempt to meet the situation. At any rate, for the time being it cannot be denicd that the massed strike is now the most important revolutionary not at all easy to say how far reaching its direct and indirect results may be.

It should be employed in every future strike of the kind wherever possible. The Case of Ettor

Editor of the Call:

The case of J. J. Ettor, the leader of the striking mill workers, who is now under arrest at Lawrence, strikes me as the gravest invasion of personal rights that this generation has seen, and I do not understand how any person in this country that believes in fundamental human liberty can remain silent in the face of it.

Mr. Ettor is in prison without bail charged with being accessory before the fact in the killing of a woman of whose existence he had never heard. The charge is capital, that is, if convicted of it Ettor may be put to death.

What, then, is the basis of this serious accusation? Did this man destre the death of this woman, or have anything to gain from it, or have any cause to seek it?

He certainly did not. It is only alleged against nim that he uttered some incendiary words, and that as a result of these words some person killed What person? The prosecution does the woman. not know. What were the motives of the slayer. The prosecution does not know. She might have been killed for jealousy, robbery, revenge, or any one of a thousand other motives that had not the slightest reference to the man now imprisoned; she might have been killed accidentally. About all this the prosecution has presented not one word of evidence. It is alleged that this man made an incendiary address; this woman was killed; therefore, throw him into prison and keep him there without bail. Also try in every way to have him convicted of her murder.

Now, the most obvious and simple principle of natural justice would require that if a person is to be deemed guilty of inciting a murder we should know that there was a murder and who committed it. In no other way can you possibly carry out the theory of instigation. Admitting the whole of hat theory, human speech is capable of widely differing interpretations. No human being could assume to say that any words had instigated any deed unless he knew who committed the deed and that such a person had heard the words inciting to such a deed. It might have been committed by some one that had never heard the words and had an entirely different motive.

Every fair-minded man will admit all this at e and without question.

But in the case of Ettor all these elemental truths are disregarded and the man is thrown into prison and kept there without bail on the bald assumption that since some one was killed he must have incited the killing.

Against this monstrous doctrine every citizen should protest without ceasing, for it is of the utmost importance to him that no such perilous ecedent should be tolerated.

This is perfectly true, no matter what may be the citizen's politics or his views upon any other subject whatsoever. The strongest conservative has as much interest as the strongest radical in seeing that the outrage in the Ettor case should be so stamped and denounced that it shall never again be attempted. If we allow one man to lose his fundamenal rights, all of us suffer the loss of our

Within the space of a few days in this country, we discover that a rich man can send to prison for thirty years a poor man that he happens to dislike: that an investigation of this strange matter can be choked off, and that a strike leader, at the pleasure of a trust, can be thrown into jail and kept there on a charge that denies every right and every principle of justice.

Within the space of a few days in this country we discover that a rich man can send to prison for thirty years a poor man that he happens to dislike:

the Census of Production, about 20.000,000 men, women, boys and girls engaged in occupations for gain. As the population in 1907 was about 41.000,000 it follows that nearly one-half people occupied in material output in 1897.

The census dealt with every sort and kind of material production for gain, save and except agricultural production. It covered that is, not only the manufacturing accomplished in factories, mills and workshops, but the preparation of food for gain in bak-

The smoky lantern was brought from the first cart and they all gathered around him. He had a shaggy black beard and the half open mouth with the snow white teeth seemed to be smiling still, but the eyos were glassy and tixed.

They ran in haste for the doctor. When he came he shook his head and ly high proportion. And this fit takes no account of the carmen, ho men, stablemen and other agents the distribution of the same o

Walking up to the Speaker's desk the other day in Congress, an "independent Republican" solemnly placed upon the desk two tin dinner pails, remarking at the time that that was all the speach is desired to make on the tariff question. One of the ressels, which was marked 1900, was twice as large as the other, which bore the date 1913. The first had building sides to show that it was were mute testimory not to the respect to the results of the competitive wage against the continually decreasing product.

These two mute witnerses may have been intended as a protest against the supposed to represent the total been intended as a protest against the tariff, but if so they protested too much. If the tariff were really responsible for the differences in their sizes it would involve the conclusion that between 1900,000 to some $135,000,00 to difference in their sizes it would involve the conclusion that between 1900 and 1913 the tariff has been doubled, which is certainly not a fact. And it would further involve the conclusion that it would involve the conclusion that it would further involve the conclusion that it would involve the conclusion that it would further involve the conclusion that it would involve
